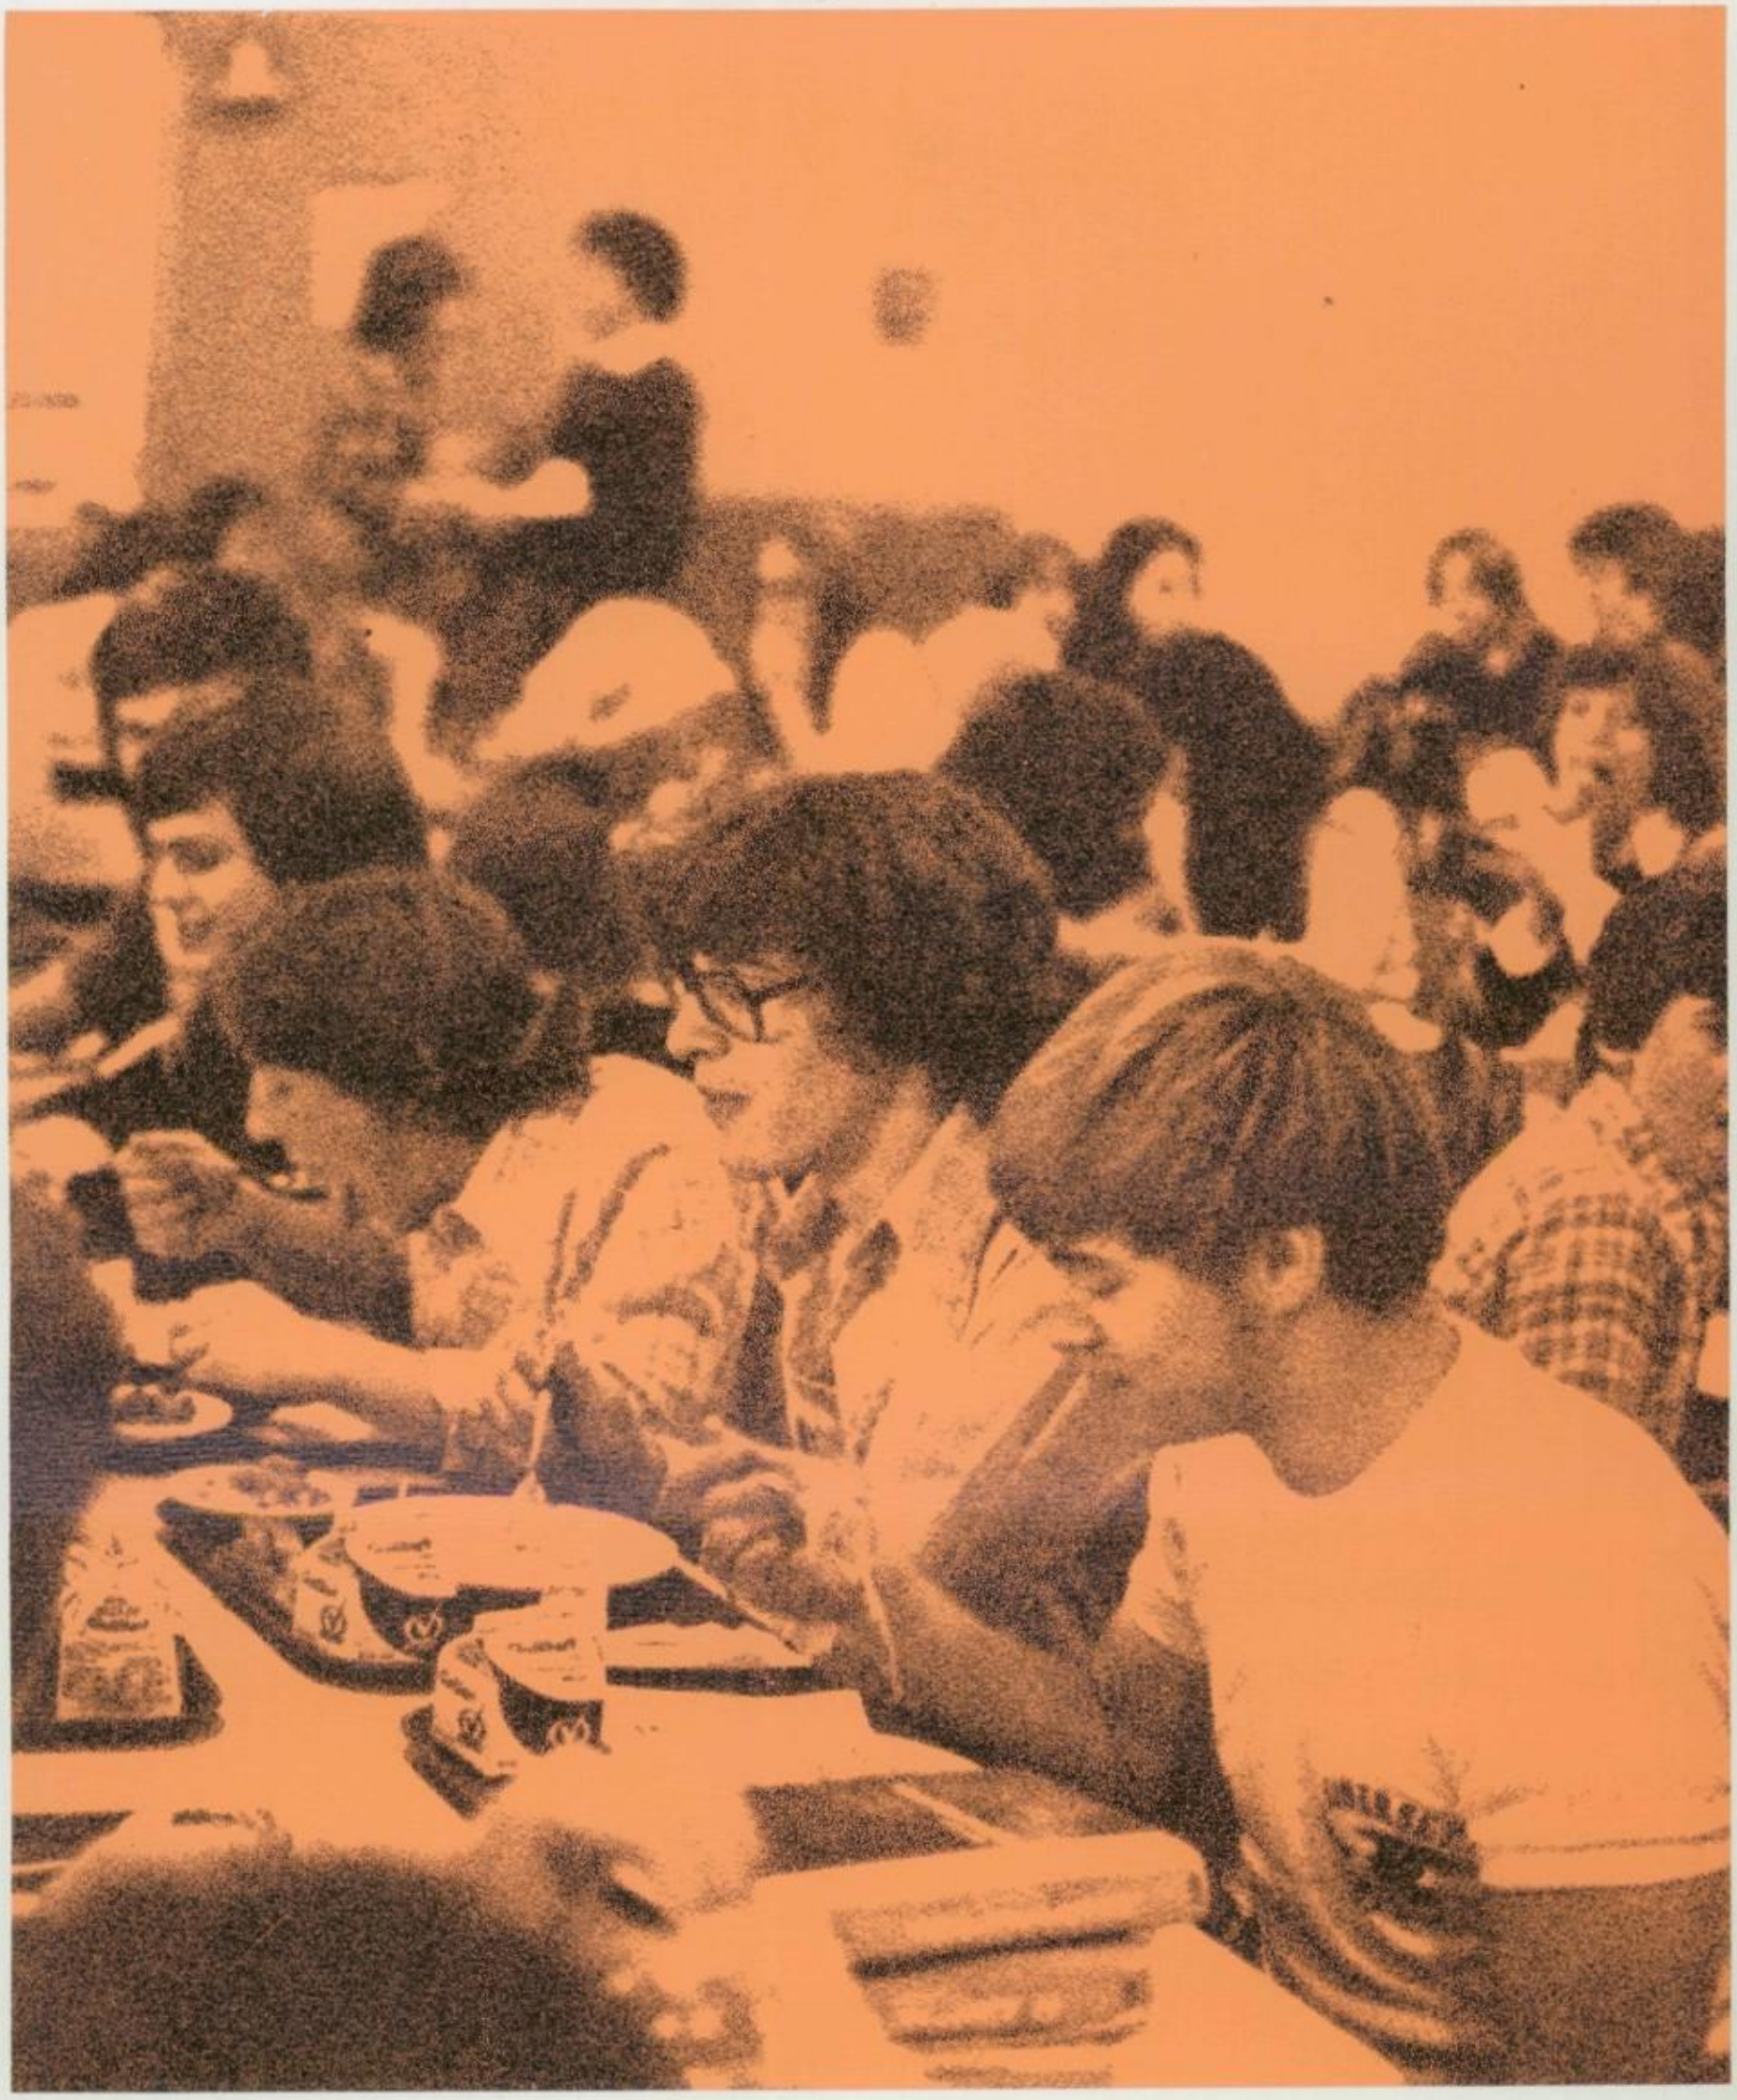
STUDENT LIFE

Seniors have no time for idle chatter during the serious business of stoking up at lunch time.



Fire drill, disaster emergency exercise or bomb threat? Who cares, as long as we're out of class for a while!

Before the Conemaugh Twp. football game, cheerleaders and football players ignite the bonfire and school spirit.

Experience, Intelligence, Maturity — a combination which must also contain some shortcomings. Our prejudices and false ideas play a part in our thoughts and actions. We learn to overcome our weaknesses by coverting them into the ties of student life.

At the mortgage burning, seniors feel pride in their record breaking magazine sales.

Senior Magazine Campaign Breaks All Records

"Be Great in 78" was the motto that pushed seniors over their goal of $19,078. They shattered all previous records in magazine sales by collecting $35,322.31. During the September campaign every homeroom went over its $78.00 per person quota.

Thirty-five seniors attended the turkey dinner which low sales homeroom 205 served to high sales homeroom 108. Class mugs rewarded each salesman who had turned in $100. Everyone selling double his quota received a Somerset Eagles stadium blanket.

Top salesman Debbie Swank, who sold $783.67 worth of magazines, chose as her prize a color television set. Elaine Monticue received a black and white TV set at the turkey dinner drawing, open to all seniors who had sold over $235 worth.

Although room 205 was low homeroom, they sold an average of only $56 under the high homeroom average.

During a two-week campaign seniors sold magazines under the Perfect School Plan. The record breaking results helped cover the increasing costs of publishing our yearbook.

After they have congratulated the seniors on their achievement, class advisors Mrs. Ankney and Mrs. Hay move from the heat of the gigantic bonfire.

Top salesmen choose their prizes at the conclusion of the magazine campaign.

Mary Shaffer happily gobbles the last of her turkey dinner.

At the turkey dinner, seniors toast the Class of 1978.

Lori Weimer and her attendants Diane Knepper and Sandy Walker circle the field on their float during the halftime entertainment.

Lori Weimer Reigns As 1978 Homecoming Queen

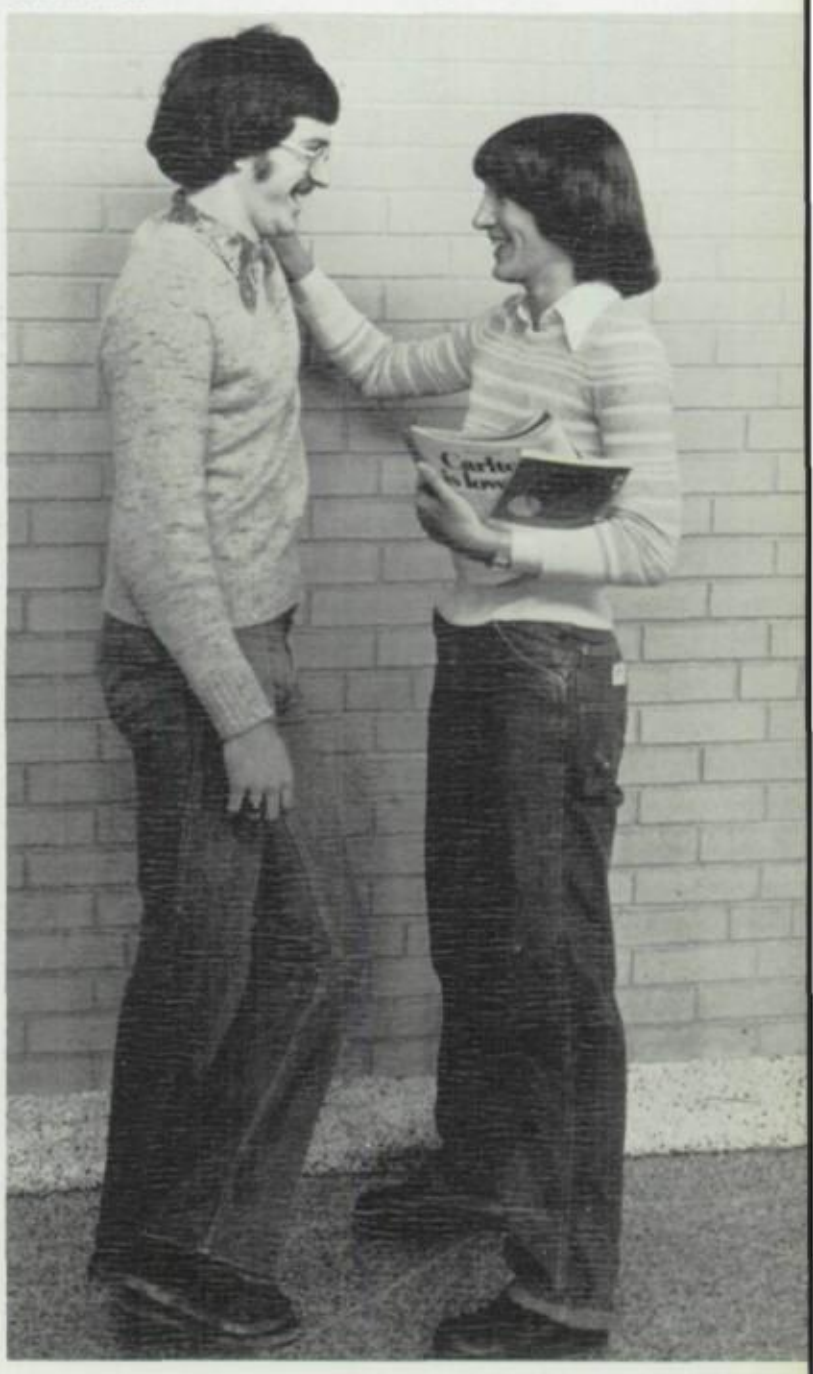
Homecoming marked the night when alumni returned once more to the familiar football field at Somerset High. It also marked a close 20-21 defeat at the hands of the favored Bedford Bisons, one of only two losses in the Eagles' winning season. The coronation of Homecoming Queen Lori Weimer, accompanied by her junior attendant Diane Knepper and sophomore attendant Sandy Walker, made half-time ceremonies special.

Nominated by Student Council, the queen and her court had been elected by the entire student body. After Mr. William Kuhlman, senior high principal, crowned Lori, the royal court circled the field in a homecoming float designed and built by the Student Council. At a dance following the football game, Guests of Honor Lori, Diane and Sandy accepted congratulations as they enjoyed the music of Up From The Sky with their dates.

After she learns of her election, Lori invites Tom to be her escort for the Homecoming coronation ceremonies.



Maple Princess Nominees: Lisa Schrock, Susie Meyers, Debbie Short, Terry Lape, Laurie Orslene, Lori Weimer, Jeanne Schrock, Rose Will

"Of course I long for romance," opens Lori Weimer's skit, where she appears as a tomboy evolving into a lady.

Debbie entertains the audience with her original monologue entitled "Boy! Wait 'Til They Get Home."

Debbie Short Takes Maple Princess Contest

Senior Class President Mark Baker congratulates Debbie Short, Somerset's Maple Princess.

On November 7 a panel of five judges chose from a group of eight contestants Debbie Short as the 1978 Somerset Maple Princess.

Contestants competed in the fields of poise, talent, promenade, personal interviews and the impromptu answering of a question before the audience. After contestants took part in individual interviews with the judges, they joined other guests of honor at a dinner held before the contest.

Talent numbers included dramatic readings, vocal and instrumental numbers and a dance routine.

Debbie presented an original monologue about her family entitled "Boy! Wait 'Til They Get Home." "Super" was the way she described her feelings when Master of Ceremonies Harold Showman announced her selection as Somerset's Maple Princess.

Debbie went on to compete in the Pennsylvania Queen Maple XXXI Contest, held at Somerset High School on March 3.

An eighteenth century German duet is one of three selections Jeanne Schrock performs for her talent number.

Senior Chicago White Sox Aid Russian Owners

Parents, friends and others seated themselves on November 18 to see the last night's class play performance.

The huge and talented cast had been at work since tryouts in early October. Eventually everyone knew everyone else's lines from hearing them so many times. The frantic directors were sure that the play wasn't going to be ready for opening night. Many practices inched along with only a portion of the cast present because of sports and work conflicts. Even at dress rehearsal cast members stopped the action to discuss who had fouled up a cue or cut someone out of a line.

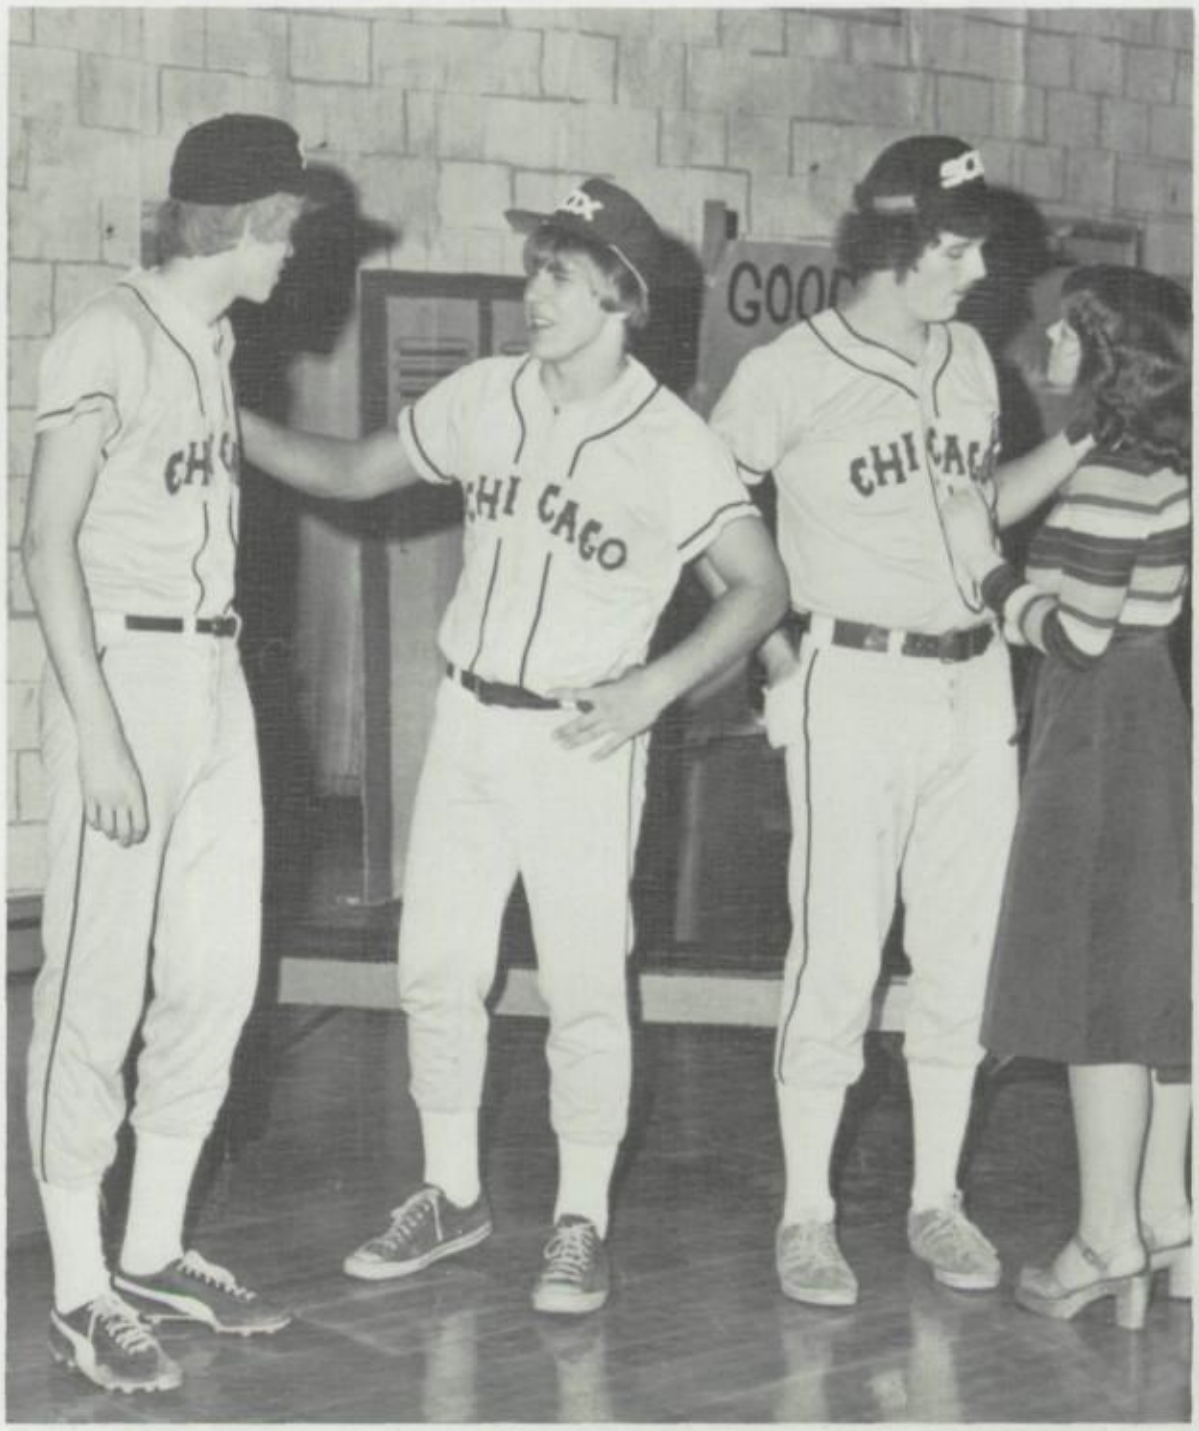
Then, unbelievably, at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, November 17, the cast began to come alive. Assorted characters arrived on time for makeup. The stage crew made last-minute checks of lights and props. Suddenly it was 8:00, and there came the call, "Everyone on stage!"

The curtain rose, and lines that had been forgotten began to flow like honey. With the exhiliration of hearing their audience's response, fifty-four Somerset seniors became budding professionals.

After the last curtain call on Friday night the stage erupted in cheers and screams. The class of 1978 had made "A Pennant for the Kremlin" a smash hit.

Later that night Ramada Inn hosted cast and committee members at the class play party in their Somerset Ballroom.

Now all those memorized lines and actions have become real memories.



Russian and American managers Deborin (Blase Cindric) and Bratton (Mark Baker) pledge their friendship while Bunny Beadle (Jeff Mosholder) and Deborin's daughter Tasia (Karen Sandusky) pledge even more.

Excited baseball fans cheer their White Sox as they win the American League pennant.

In Winning "A Pennant For The Kremlin"

White Sox team members show little appreciation for the latest presentation of Madame Bucharova, personal subscriptions to "The Daily Worker".

Vivian Callaway (Tracey Meyers) and her camerman Henrietta (Elaine Monticue) interview the Machado family, brought from Cuba as part of a baseball team appointed to substitute for the rebelling White Sox.

T.V. and newspaper reporters take notes as Fishmonger Mrs. Iannucci (Gayle Shockey) hands Madame Bucharova (Karen Durst) a halibut wrapped in "The Daily Worker", while Masha (Pam Supanick) reverently holds the Red flag aloft.

"Don't tell me what to do," warns Hilts (Jim Ryan) to the Dodgers manager (Tom Stoltz) as the base umpire (Joe Pacifico) backs him up.

During a practice session Mrs. Halverson hunts for a question to stump the quiz team.

Scholastic Quiz Team Competes With Everett

With dry throats and shaky hands, eleven seniors and two juniors competed in November to become one of six members of this year's Scholastic Quiz team. This number had been narrowed down from twenty-five who took part in preliminary contests.

Matt Brown, Scott Logsdon, Jim Ryan and Captain Blase Cindric won places on the team, which challenged Everett in the first round of the 1977-78 contest. Alternates Tim Eutin and Tracey Meyers stood waiting in case of the absence of one of the top four. Advisors Mrs. Martha Halverson and Mrs. Roberta Antram accompanied the team to their match at station WJAC-TV in Johnstown.

During the preliminary round Somerset defeated Everett, but when it came to the actual match, they just couldn't get any momentum started. In the second half they suddenly came to life with a surge of answers, but time ran out before they could pull ahead.

Alternates Tracey Meyers and Tim Eutin are a little deflated after the first-round loss to Everett.

During the Scholastic Quiz assembly Don Moyer and Scott Logsdon compete for the question asked by Mrs. Antram.

Moderator Ron Lorence briefs the quiz team on the rules governing toss-up questions.

Matt Brown awaits the decision as to whether he hit his buzzer before time ran out.

Varied Assemblies Inform, Amuse, Raise Spirit

Gyroscopic lecturer gives Clarence Knopsnyder a spin in a demonstration of the conservation of angular momentum.

Student body and faculty assembled in the auditorium for roof-raising pep rallies introducing athletic teams and highlighting important events in their seasons. A bonfire gave Eagle fans a chance to burn a Conemaugh Township Indian before the important football season clincher. Dracula visited our school to bury Everett for the girls' basketball team.

The Antrim Bureau supplied more educational assemblies. Representatives of the coal industry and the FBI informed students on future job opportunities.

Snakes kept the audience on the edges of their seats as they wrapped themselves around volunteers. Other student demonstrators attempted to carry suitcases with spinning gyroscopes across the stage as a visiting lecturer reviewed the historical importance of gyroscopes.

Music for entertainment and instruction was the topic of a string instrument assembly. Later a local group "Stargate" roused the students to rock and roll.

Exchange Students Add International Spice

This year Somerset senior high students glimpsed the customs of Mexico and Switzerland through the eyes of two foreign exchange students, Alfonzo Villarreal Loor and Peter Schwaller.

Alfonzo brought Mexico into the homes of four Rotary families — The Frank Famarisses, the Fred Shaffers, the Alan Millers and the Jay Hemmingers — who shared in his sponsorship. Peter resided at the home of the Raymond Kimmel family.

Peter came to us through the Youth for Understanding Program, an international student exchange program, while Alfonzo came to us through his Rotary Club in Monterrey, Mexico.

As graduating seniors of 1978, Pete and Pancho received their Somerset High School class rings as gifts from the L. G. Balfour Company.

These exchange programs provided an excellent opportunity for our two foreign students as well as for Somerset to learn first hand about the life style of a country other than their own.

Alfonzo and Peter receive their class rings from Mr. Kuhlman along with congratulations from the L. G. Balfour ring company.

During pre-game warmups, Pete perfects his jump shot.

Pancho helps Mrs. Carol Famariss, his substitute Spanish teacher, with a few vocabulary pronunciations.

Alfonzo enjoys the Somerset countryside with his friend Rebel, the Famariss horse.

Community Rescue Resources Work Together

During fifth period on Thursday, October 13, classes and lunch were proceeding as usual. One class in particular was busily preparing for an event that would soon affect the entire school body.

Suddenly the chemistry lab was in chaos as an explosion toppled desks and sent students sprawling. The fire siren's howl spread havoc through the school and the community.

Firemen entered the smoke-filled room, acting quickly to assist the injured and remove the dead. Ambulances worked to transport victims to the hospital.

These annual fire drills were developed to aid Somerset and surrounding area ambulance corps, hospital staff, firemen and citizens in procedures involving actual emergency situations. This year in conjunction with National Fire Prevention Week the mock disaster drill took place at the senior high.

Groups of different ideas are represented by different people. Each class is a rival to the others — competing to be the best. But still all believe as one in spirit, unity and school loyalty.

Students jam into the cafeteria for an elbow-to-elbow study hall.

CLASSES

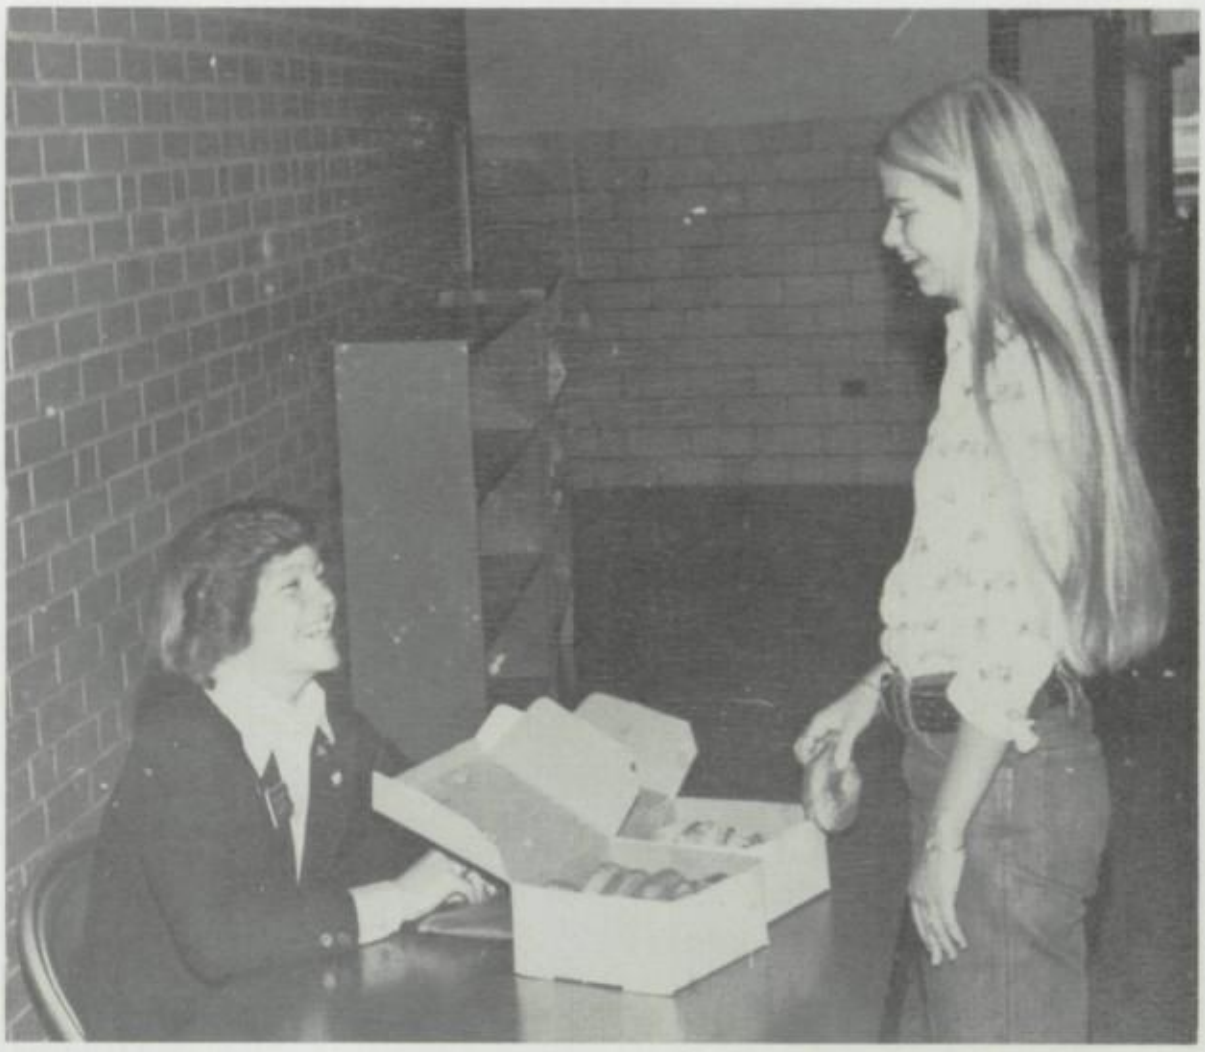
Sophomore Mike Barnett finds that having a friend like senior Whitey Miller has its advantage on the volleyball court.

Connie Sheeler And Mark Baker Demonstrate

Every year the Senior class elects Mr. and Miss Senior, chosen to represent their ideals.

Miss Senior is Connie Sheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Sheeler. A business student, she served as FBLA local president and state vice-president. Connie acted as class secretary for three years and as Women's Club Girl of the Month.

Mark Baker, Mr. Senior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Baker. A three-time varsity letterman in wrestling and football, Mark received the 1977 Tribune-Democrat scholastic athletic award for football. He also earned a place on the Somerset County football team. He wrestled his way to 1977 district and regional championships and participated in the state finals. President of his class, Mark also held offices in French Club, S Club, and Mu Alpha Theta.



To raise money for Children's Hospital, the 1978 FBLA project, Connie sells donuts to an early morning breakfast skipper.

Mark grimaces during a hard pre-season workout.

Seniors Appear At Community Meetings

Jaycees: James Ryan, Dirk Rodgers, Jack Stoy, Charles Howard, Barry Fye, James Beggs, Rodger Fieg

Every year senior boys and girls are selected to represent their school at various clubs throughout the community. Chosen for their leadership, personality, scholastic ability and character, students share their ideas and abilities with the community club members, in return gaining experience in public speaking.

Faculty members elected boys previously nominated by their classmates. They attended meetings of Rotary Club, Lions Club, Jaycees, and Kiwanis for a month before speaking on a topic of their choosing.

Girls, also elected by the faculty, were invited to attend meetings of Women's Club, the B.P.W., and the Soroptimist Club. At these meetings the girls spoke to their hostesses or demonstrated a talent.

Women's Club: Brenda Hill, Kathleen Hauger, Lisa Clay, Mary Piatt, Beth Urbain, Connie Sheeler, Debra Lowry, Amy Blair

Lions Club: Donald Moyer, Scott Shields, Blase Cindric, Kurt Shellenberger, Jeffrey Mosholder, James Lorentz, Fred Bean, Gregory Beals

Co-leaders of the senior class with 4.0 averages are Barry Fye, Blase Cindric, Jack Stoy, Pam Supanick, and Lee Miller.

Outstanding Seniors Lead Their Departments

During their senior year many students are commended on jobs well done. Among these are the recipients of the outstanding senior awards. Teachers from each major department choose one senior for special recognition. Curricular divisions include home economics, business, academics, industrial arts and agriculture. However, this year no seniors were enrolled in the agriculture course.

There are specific qualifications these seniors must fill. For home economics the winner must have taken sewing, cooking and child development. Senior students having sales, accounting and secretarial classes are eligible for the outstanding business student award. Since academic subjects cover such a wide range of participation, class standing decides the academic senior. Industrial arts students are required to have taken wood shop, metal shop, mechanical drawing and small gas engines.

In all cases the senior recipient must be scholastically qualified, dependable, respectable, respectful and cooperative.

Council Initiates Student Review Committee

This year's Student Council designed assemblies for all classes to take part in. Three favorites were the Gong Show, a volleyball assembly, and the Mr. and Miss Legs contest.

All members sold candy sticks to help improve the club's finances. The council also collected money to sponsor our Chilean foster child, Juana Adevedo Mantilla.

As a first, the council organized a student committee to review the Somerset Area school board. The committee sent one representative to each of the board's meetings.

Tom Stoltz and Lisa Rush attended the State School Board conference held in Pittsburgh. Tom Stoltz and Peggy Matthews represented our school in the Intermediate Unit Eight forum. Don Moyer was our representative in the Pennsylvania Youth Traffic Safety Council. Tom Stoltz, presided as our Student Council president. He also served as president of IU8.

Mrs. Kemp and Dave Custer discuss plans for future assemblies that will help raise student morale.

To avoid an argument, John Gilmour compromises by buying candy sticks from both Brad Zerfoss and Lisa Rush.

Two Day Bake Sale Finances NHS Spring Field Trip

Fourteen juniors and forty seniors comprised the membership of local chapter 888 of the National Honor Society. Elected by the faculty, membership represented 5% of the junior class and 15% of the senior class.

Monthly meetings took place when members slated activities and discussed procedures in their tutoring program.

All NHS'ers took part in the club's tutoring service, now in its fifth year, which offered academic aid to any student in any subject. The group held several bake sales to finance a field trip. They also hosted a teachers' tea in February to honor the faculty.

Formal induction took place in April with all initiates receiving certificates and membership cards.

Journalists Inducted Into Quill And Scroll

Jim Ryan and Karen Sandusky prepare for Quill and Scroll induction.

Promoting high standards for recognition of outstanding journalistic achievements was the goal of the local chapter of the international organization of Quill and Scroll.

Society membership came from the staffs of the Eagles Echo and the Eaglet. Newspaper members were required to publish a minimum of fifty inches of copy in the Somerset Daily American, while yearbook members were recommended by their editors and advisor. In addition, all members ranked in the top third of their classes.

Induction ceremonies took place on March 9, followed by a reception for members and their parents.

Mrs. Phyllis Cindric, yearbook advisor, and Mr. Jay Christner, returning newspaper advisor, served as co-sponsors of this year's chapter.

Pam Supanick waits for Jim Ryan and Scott Logsdon to copyread an article.

Jackie Pickett and Karen Durst get ready to express their opinion as Tracey Meyers explains her feature article.

Editor-in-Chief Dirk Rodgers headed the 1978 Eagles Echo. His many duties included writing editorials, supervising page production and delivering materials to the Somerset American office.

Echo staffers participated in other activities in addition to publishing the paper. Journalism I students toured Radio Station WVSC, where technicians explained some of the radio's operations. On the same trip the students visited the Somerset Daily American office, where they observed one method of publishing a newspaper.

Fourteen staff members attended a press seminar sponsored by the Johnstown Tribune-Democrat for schools in the Somerset-Cambria area.

New equipment for the publishing of the paper was furnished. A glass covered paste-up table and a waxer were used to simplify and minimize work for the staff.

Mr. Jay Christner returned as newspaper advisor after a two-year leave of absence.

Editor-In-Chief, Copy Editor Reassigned;

The 1978 yearbook's beginning can be traced back to the last year's junior journalism classes, where students practiced cropping pictures, writing and revising copy, designing layouts and mastering other yearbook fundamentals. As the end of the year neared, it became time to choose editors. Instead of the traditional Editor-in-Chief and Copy Editor to head the staff, the group decided to combine the two positions, naming co-editors who would share all of the layout and copy duties as well as organizational responsibilities previously divided between the two separate positions. In August newly elected co-editors Karen Sandusky and Lisa Clay attended a yearbook seminar sponsored by the Taylor Publishing Company at the Seven Springs Resort. There they reviewed new and varied ideas, several of which they brought back and modified for inclusion in the '78 yearbook.

The actual test arose when junior yearbook students became senior staff members, working to produce the '78 Eaglet.

Eaglet Business Staff Supervises Sales Campaigns

Organizing and running the magazine and yearbook subscriptions gave Eaglet business staff members experience in the sales and money management field.

Senior magazine sales started off the year. Each day, business managers announced which homeroom and which individuals had turned in the highest totals. They also named the winner of the daily drawing of a cash prize open to all seniors who had already met their quota of $78.

Homeroom 108, attaining the highest sales, ate the annual turkey dinner. Prizes to the five highest salesmen were presented at the burning of the sales record mortgage held by the class of 1977.

Collecting yearbook and magazine orders were the team captains, who also canvassed professional and commercial patrons for inclusion in the Eaglet.

Business staff advisor was Mrs. Lilia Miller.

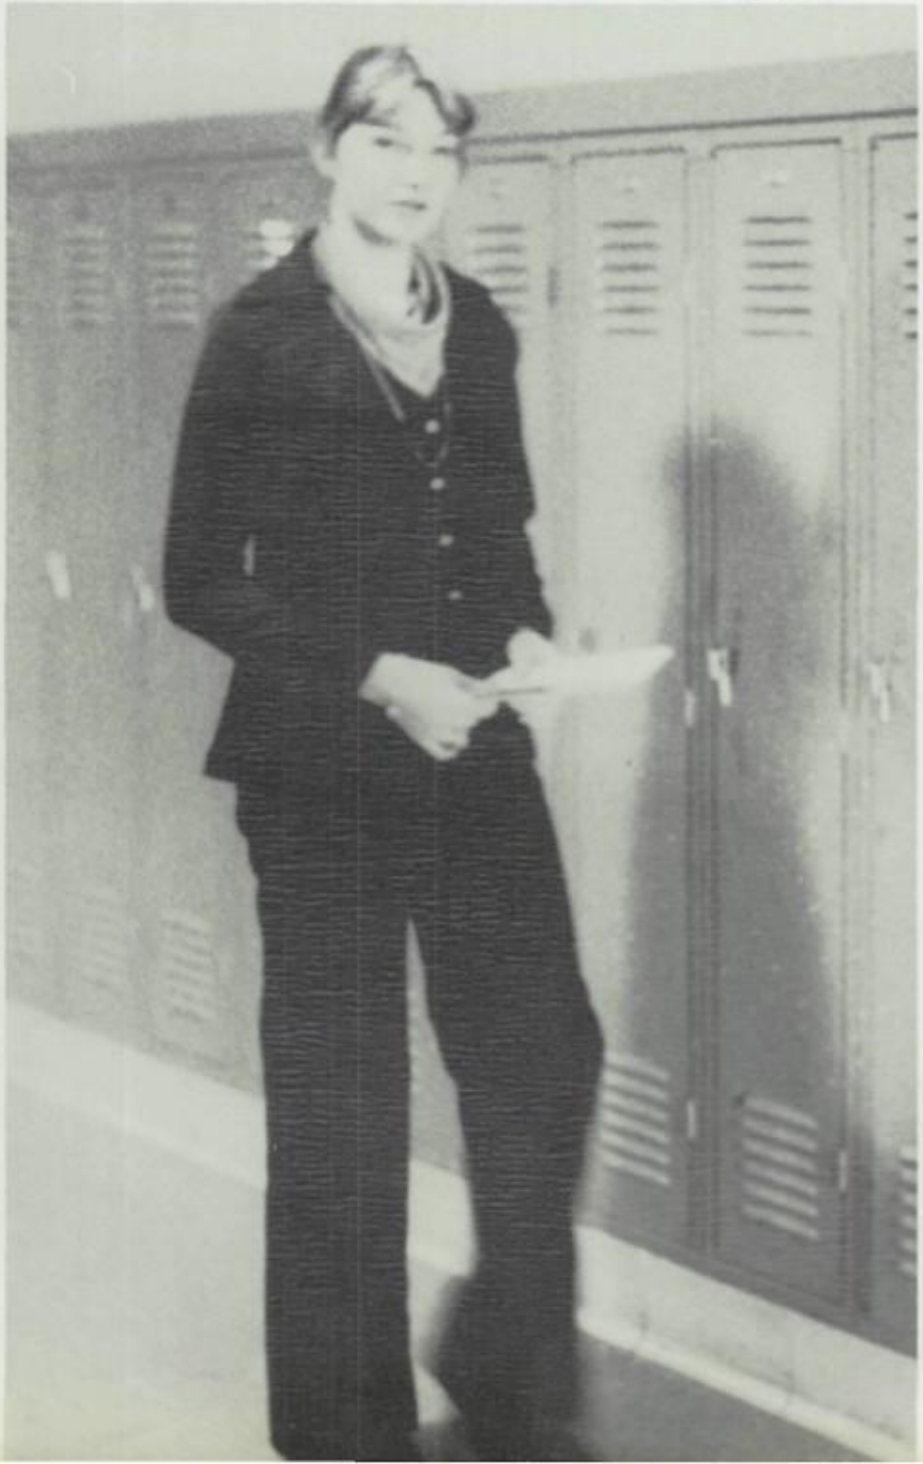
Connie Sheeler Is State Vice-President

Melissa Ream delivers Christmas cards for the FBLA package project.



Now in its sixteenth year, the Somerset chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America traveled to its fall leadership conference in October, its spring leadership contest conference in March and its state leadership conference at Lancaster in April. Later that month members enjoyed a field trip.

Connie Sheeler attended the Tri-State Business Education Association in Pittsburgh accompanied by Advisor Mrs. Lilia Miller. Connie and Mrs. Miller were both members of the FBLA State Advisory Board and the State Executive Council. Connie also served as State Vice President.

The club's Easter candy sale in February provided funds to continue FBLA support of many projects. As a new activity this year members sold donuts in the main lobby before school to benefit Pittsburgh Children's Hospital, a state FBLA project. In order to complete their pledge of support to the hospital, they also sold Christmas candles and cheese novelties.

YEA Members Try Their Hands As Cadet Teachers

Offering students the opportunity to do something about the quality of their future education, the YEA visited Frostburg College during the fall. Upon arrival, an admissions representative briefly informed them about admissions requirements, organizations, programs offered and student life. Dividing into smaller groups, the members then toured the college, learning the basic requirements of teaching preparation.

Cadet Teaching Day gave YEA'ers a chance to utilize their own teaching skills. Under the guidance of regular faculty personnel, members helped to teach classes at both elementary and junior high levels.

During the year, YEA hosted an all-day teachers' tea for the senior high faculty. During their free time teachers enjoyed refreshments prepared by the members.

The social high point of the year came with the annual field trip to Washington, D.C. and Williamsburg, Virginia in conjunction with the French and Library Clubs.

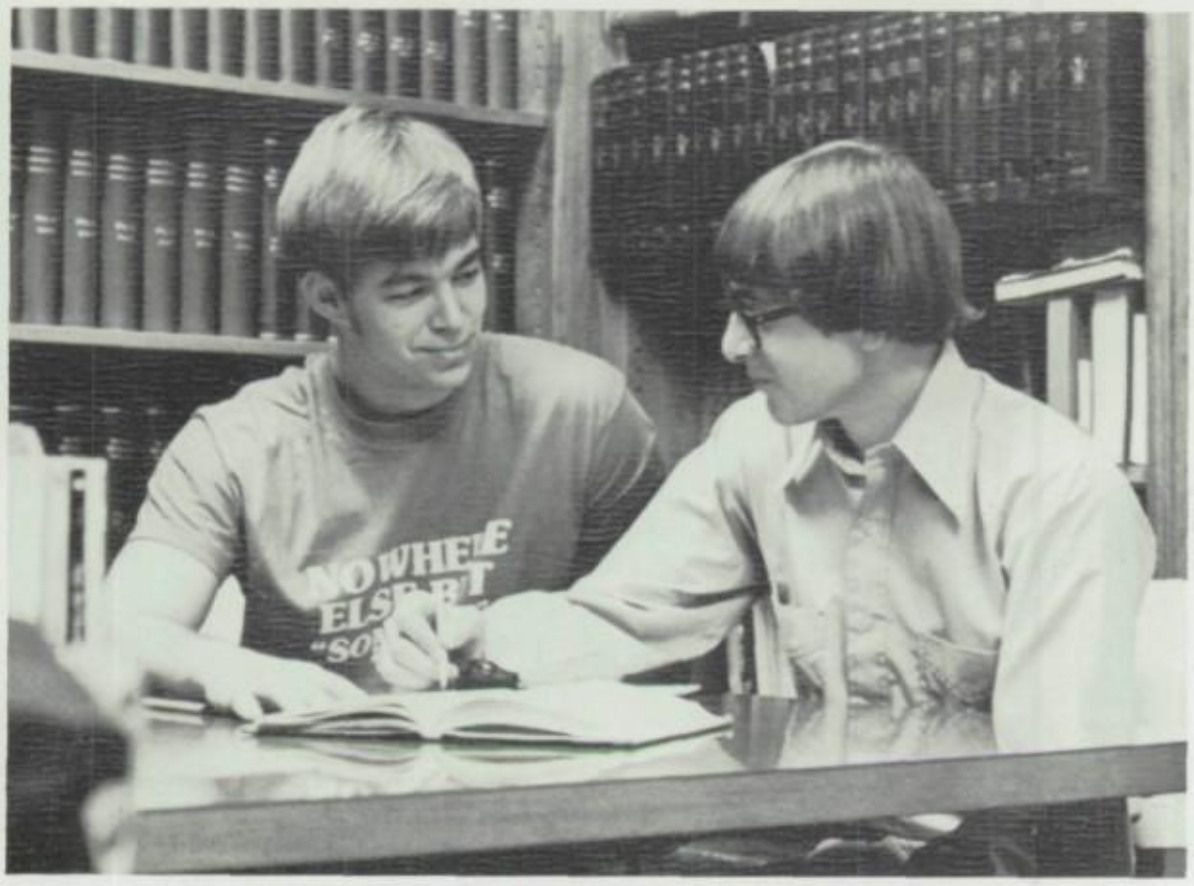
Mu Alpha Theta Inducts Twenty-Eight Members



Tutor Barry Fye baffles Ken Stern with a question about the law of cosines.

Following induction, officers Mark Baker, Lee Miller, and Beth Urbain wait to check on the membership roster as secretary Debbie Short presents it to Advisor Mr. Bruno.

Mu Alpha Theta's membership peaked at twenty-eight students this year.

The chapter participated in two seminars sponsored by the University of Pittsburgh at Johnstown, the annual mid-November Math Day and the Engineering Conference in March. Members participated in lectures, films, and discussions on such topics as mental wizardry, problem solving and "electronic mail."

Induction took place at the October meeting with everyone receiving certificates and membership cards.

A newsletter, the Mathematical Log, with thought-provoking problems and new or modified methods of solution incited discussions between members.

The club again sponsored the National High School Mathematics Exam. They also continued to cooperate with the National Honor Society tutoring program by giving individual instruction to students needing assistance in any phase of mathematics.

Tri-Hi-Y Collects Donations For Charities

Tri-Hi-Y members attended the Model Legislature program in Harrisburg where they took part in the administration of a model government.

A service organization, the club collected contributions for several charitable causes. Led by advisor Miss Ruth Barkley, they sold lollipops during January so that they could make a donation to the Highland Heart Association drive. They also canvassed for funds for cancer research and treatment.

Creating, maintaining and extending throughout home, school and community high standards of Christian character is the objective of the Tri-Hi-Y, an extension of the YMCA.

German Dishes Challenge Club Culinary Talents

In early October members of the German Club attended the Spring Folk Festival and afterwards dined at Fred Warner's Deutches Restaurant in Cresaptown, Md.

This year's sales stock of Gummi bears diminished in such a hurry that club members ordered a second shipment and had no trouble selling them.

Not only did members taste a German restaurant's cooking, but they tested their own skill in preparing some of their own German dishes.

Advisor Mr. John Harris led the club on a caroling tour uptown and near the West End during the Christmas season. On one cold night members met to take up the old wintery tradition of sled riding.

Janeen Nunnari purchases an extra pack of gummi bears following Lynn Schrock's sales pitch.

Trip To Canada Includes Tour Of Niagra Falls

Money making schemes kept the French Club hopping during the first months of the year. To help finance their school activities, the club sponsored a post-game sock hop and sold baked goods at several dances. Another fund-raising project was their McDonalds ticket sales. During the Christmas season they marketed an assortment of candles, key chains and Christmas ornaments.

Along with literature students, they took a September excursion to our French neighbor to the North, Canada. There they visited Niagra Falls and viewed two Shakespearean plays, "As You Like It" and "Romeo and Juliet." They also merged with YEA to spread Christmas cheer by caroling at both the Somerset State and Community Hospitals.

To climax the year, the French Club took a spring field trip to Washington D.C. and Williamsburg, supervised by Mrs. Colette Sherren.

Rose Will laughs when she hears Joe Pacifico and Jeff Mosholder attempt to sing "Jingle Bells" in French.

Peter Schwaller and Brenda Rubright count the money they made selling McDonald tickets.

Karen Sandusky doesn't receive any offers of help from Blase Cindric, Mark Baker or Steve Morocco when Mrs. Sherren informs her that she must sell all the remaining Christmas candles.

Club officers Mike Knecht, Carla Wojnaroski, Pam Shaulis and Alfonso Villarreal set up the Spanish scrabble board for a quick game before class.

Summer Mexican Excursion Highlights Year

Mrs. Chapman helps Mary Roach devise a suggested menu for the Spanish banquet.

Members of the Spanish Club visited Mexico City and Acapulco during the summer of 1977. The club observed the Mexican way of life and ate Mexican food.

The annual New World's Day Spanish dinner was held, where freshman Spanish students played the part of the Mexicans who were conquered by the Spaniards (senior Spanish students). The freshmen served the seniors a typical Spanish dinner, dressed according to the roles they portrayed.

In December Spanish Club members went caroling at the Somerset Community Hospital, bringing Christmas cheer to the patients.

Bake sales, dances and a car wash were all schemes to raise money for a planned trip to Spain during the summer of 1978.

McDonalds Decorations Exhibit Club Talent

November's Open House gave senior high Art Club members a chance to exhibit their creations. A few outstanding pieces of art work earned places at the Dressler Art Center for display.

Art club activities consisted of decorating the float for Homecoming ceremonies and assisting in the mock disaster drill. They also entered the Easter egg contest held at Richland Mall. For Halloween Art Clubbers painted the McDonald restaurant windows and for Christmas they painted the nursing station windows at the Somerset State Hospital.

The club sponsored an after-football game dance which helped raise money for their March field trip to the Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh.

Library Club Visits State Hospital Patients

Keeping the library shelves spotless is one of Kathy Mills' chores as a member of Library Club.

Library Club members kept active during the school year by helping out in the school library at least one period a week. Members organized book and magazine shelves, checked books in and out and decorated the library bulletin board each month.

Student librarians sold McDonald tickets along with French Club and YEA, which helped them raise money for their spring field trip to Washington D.C. and Williamsburg, Virginia. The club sponsored after-football game dances in the beginning of the year, which also aided them in raising money for special activities.

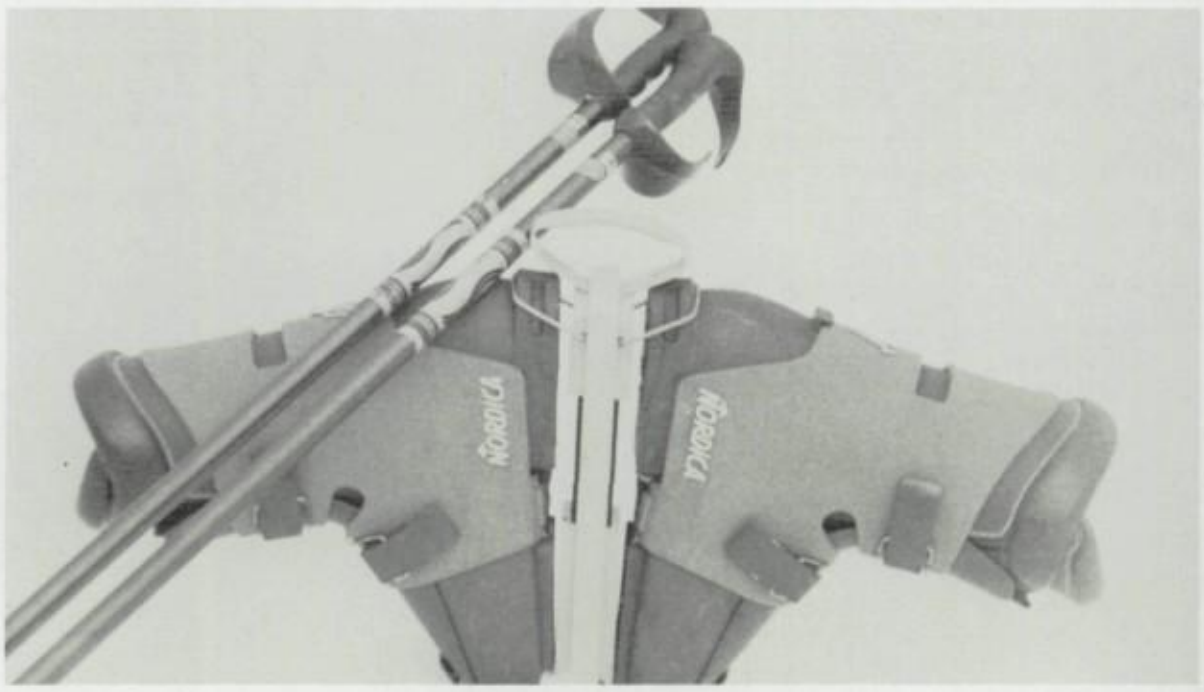
Library Clubbers also visited the Somerset State Hospital, where they organized activities for the patients' participation.

Club Members Enjoy Night Skiing At Seven Springs

After a late start because of uncooperative weather, the Ski Club, comprised of a large group of eager skiers, prepared to head for the slopes under the direction of their fearless leader, Mr. Thomas Fridy.

Once the snow started falling, regular bus trips to Hidden Valley yielded skiing lessons on gentle slopes for beginners and a choice of several challenging runs for the more advanced.

Members helped to finance regular club activities by paying annual dues. In addition to regular club practice sessions, skiers made several special trips to other area resorts, including Seven Springs and Blue Knob.



Boots and poles await the start of another skiing season.

Camera Bugs Bring School Activities To Life

Sandy Garlich and Scott Shields scrutinize their negatives before they print pictures.

1978 was an active year for the photographers because of many assemblies and activities which involved the need for pictures to be taken. The purpose of Camera Club was to teach future yearbook and newspaper photographers how to use cameras and work to develop and print pictures in the darkroom. While in school they took pictures for the yearbook and newspaper as well as any extra pictures that might be requested. Out of school they entered several photography contests for a change of pace.

The group, composed of twenty-five members, presented a display of their work at the spring choral concert.

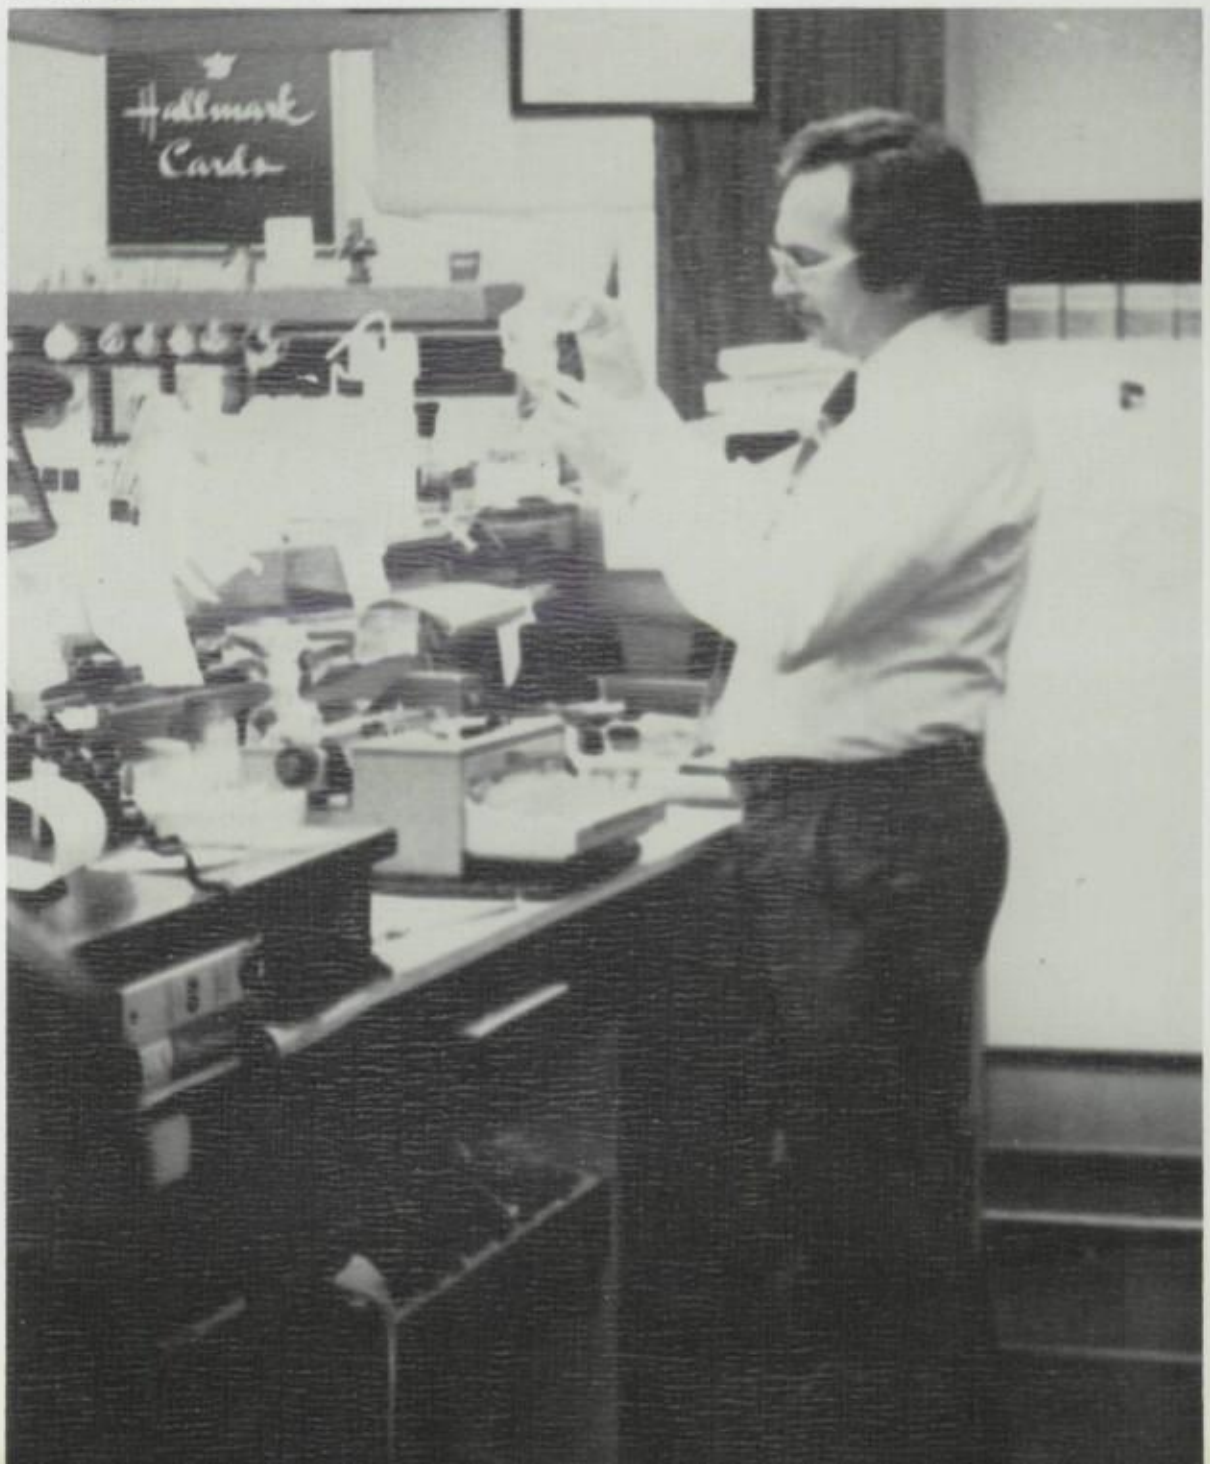
Pharmacist Talks On Future Medical Careers

The Health Careers Club, comprised of anatomy students, added to their knowledge of the medical field through tours, club meetings and guest speakers.

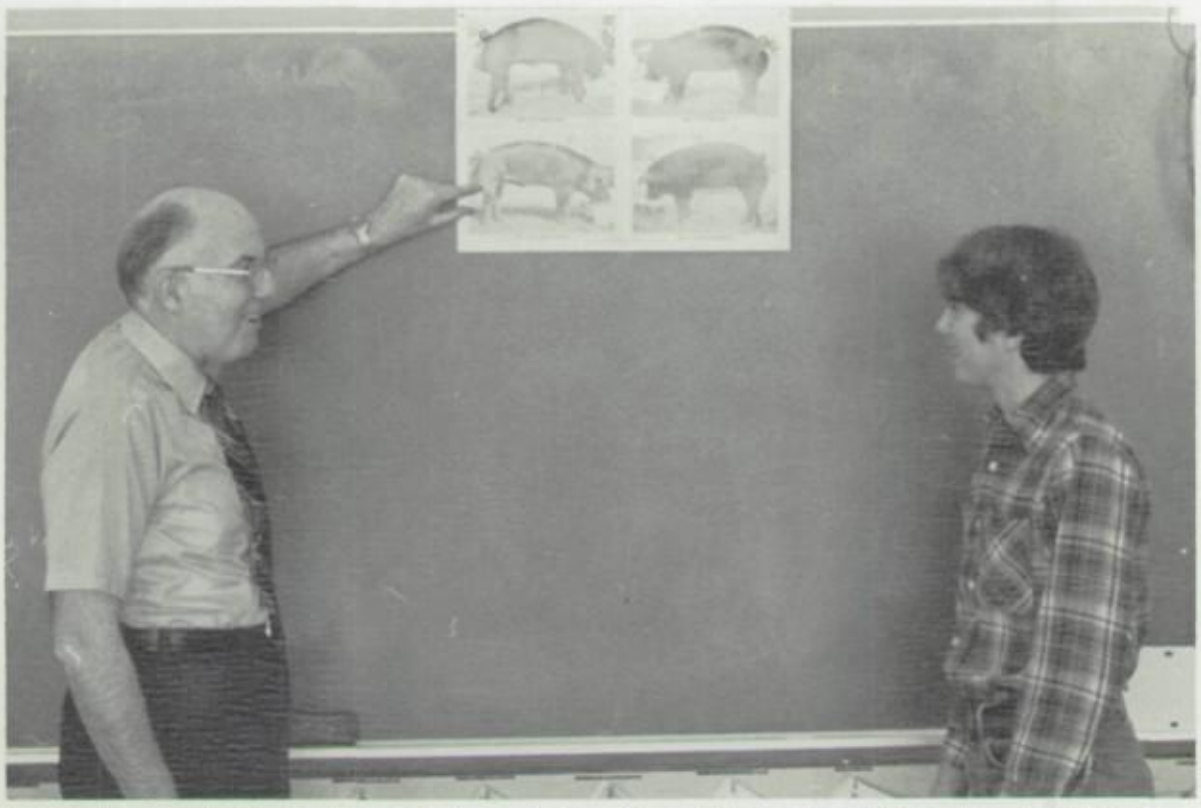
Advisor Mr. Thomas Fridy traveled with the club members on the tour of a hospital in Pittsburgh. There the students observed many different procedures and techniques used in the medical field.

In April the group helped carry out community organization fund drives. Members collected donations for the Easter Seal Society and the Cancer Society in their yearly Easter Lily and Daffodil Day sales.

During a club field trip, Pharmacist Mr. Waggoner explains the use of a medication while preparing a prescription.



FFA Sells Citrus Fruit And Vegetable Seeds



After judging at the Virginia State Fair livestock show, Bruce Suter agrees with Mr. Hine that judges like a good ham in a pig.

FFA was open to those students enrolled in vocational agriculture. The Future Farmers of America is a national organization consisting of four levels of organization: local, county, state and national. The four degrees of membership are Greenhand, Chapter Farmer, State Farmer and American Farmer.

The major purpose of the local club was to provide vo-ag students an opportunity to demonstrate what they had learned by actual practice.

The club competed in county and state demonstration contests near Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Other activities included the sale of sweet Spanish onion plants along with Christmas trees, citrus fruit and vegetable seeds, which put the club on a sound financial basis.

After Bruce Suter won a place in a state livestock judging team, he participated in a regional contest at the Virginia State Fair.

Mr. Hine checks with Mark Barron to be sure that the citrus fruit delivery count is accurate.

Community Patronizes Club By Giving Money

"Fund raisers unlimited" were the words to describe the 1977-78 Varsity S Club. Projects provided eligible athletes with opportunities to earn their letter jackets. In order to be eligible for a letter jacket, an athlete had to win two varsity letters. In addition, each athlete needed an allotted number of service points, earned by participating in assigned fund-raising activities. This was made necessary because the school board found it impossible to provide jackets to varsity letter winners.

The S Club worked hard on its many fund-raising projects. They initiated a drive for sponsors, whereby a patron paid a five-dollar donation to benefit all sports. As an unpaid community service, they assisted in the annual Lions Club broom sale. However, by selling Somerset Eagle hats and bubushkas the club made a little extra profit.

One of the biggest moneymakers for the club this year was the McDonald's ticket sales, which reached its quota of two thousand tickets.

Chorus, Ensembles Perform In December And May

On December 15 Christmas flew up over the rooftops on the colorful set designed and created by chorus members for their concert under the direction of Mr. John Dice.

The program combined both traditional and secular music, including "O Holy Night" and "Silent Night" with solos by Jackie Pickett and Patty Lavan.

Giving an extra touch to the concert, the girls presented "If Christmas Isn't Love." Later the boys ensemble sang "The Boar's Head Carol," featuring Dirk Rodgers, Ken Stern and Don Moyer as soloists.

In May the chorus held its spring concert, highlighted by two lengthy songs, "Exodus" and "I Have Longed For Thy Saving Health." Special pieces performed by the girls' and boys' ensembles added spice to the program.

Accompanists Shari Baker, Carla Wojnarowski and Cindy Meyers put in a busy year at the piano. Harold Showman served as alumni accompanist.

Touring Choir Sings at Community Churches

Receiving their new touring choir jackets highlighted the choir's year, in addition to many activities.

Members performed at the Lions Club variety show and at the Rotary Club's May meeting. The choir, which consisted of twenty-eight selected singers, practiced and performed throughout the year, traveling the second Sunday of every month to one of eight different area churches, where they presented religious melodies.

A new performance this year took place at the Somerset County Farm Women's convention at the Ramada Inn.

The purpose of the group was to take part in church and community programs, thereby promoting goodwill between school and community.

District VI Orchestra Convenes At Somerset High

District VI's orchestra festival marked the pinnacle for this year, when it was held at Somerset Senior High. Seventeen of the 127 students involved in District Orchestra were Somerset students.

Before their performance on February 4th, the orchestra practiced for two days in the auditorium, bringing the sounds of different schools together under the baton of Dr. Donald Portnoy from West Virginia University.

In the spring the orchestra held their annual concert to cap the 1978 school year.

Junior high students joined the senior high orchestra to perform at Baccalaureate and Commencement when the absence of senior members created vacancies in the group.

Camp Provides Practice For Parades And Shows

Mr. McDowell leads the band through their final rehearsal before their debut at the Pops concert.

A new facet added variety to this year's Golden Eagle band activities — a summer band camp. Its purpose was to prepare the band for its first football game performance, scheduled only a few days after the start of school, and also to give members practice for their summer festivals.

Instead of a single concert performance, the band presented three concerts this year — a Christmas concert, a pops concert in May and the traditional spring concert in April.

Many of the school's musicians supplemented their activities by participating in various festivals, including All-County Band and District Band. In addition, six instrumentalists earned chairs in the I.U.P. Honors Band in January.

The group participated in several parade and concert performances, including Meyersdale, Casebeer Grove, the Memorial Day parade at Somerset, and the fireman's parade at Kittanning.

The Pep Band, drawn from the ranks of the regular band, performed at pep assemblies, bonfires and the magazine mortgage burning, as well as during football and basketball games.

Another change initiated this year was a special period reserved for jazz band to polish a variety of music, including "Johnny's Theme" from the Tonight Show.

New War Games Club Poses Mental Challenges

Similar to the Chess Club, which was discontinued three years ago, a new club of mind challenging games became a reality this year.

Meetings took place once each week at a different member's home, where competitors vied in a variety of games requiring mental strategy and sequences of intricate moves.

A council of regents was appointed from the club's membership. It was the responsibility of the council to coordinate all of the club's activities as well as to select and screen games to be played by the membership. The council also acted as a neutral body to rule on questions of procedure in any game.

Contests staged by the club included "Wooden Ships and Iron Men," "Waterloo," "Chancellorsville" and "Caesar Alesia."

The competition color guard under Captain Hollie Pile and the majorettes headed by Sue Meyers accented half-time performances at all football games. Field routines included a Latin Show as well as twirling and marching patterns accompanying the "Hustle" and theme from "Rocky." Both squads performed in parades, including those at Rockwood, Central City, Memorial Day at Somerset and the Firemen's Convention at Kittanning.

With the disbanding of the front guard, this year's color guard expanded to a twelve-flag formation. Majorettes twirled both fire batons and hoops in addition to regular batons. For the first time positions on both squads were open to the entire student body and not limited to band members.

With 1:34 left in the game, the JV football team anticipates a towering victory over longtime rival North Star.

We exalt as a team
and fall as one.
We celebrate when another advances,
for when he achieves,
so also do we.
As one we learn to accept triumphs with modesty and losses with pride.
We build for the future
as we taste competition.

New Head Coach Robert Brougher and the Golden Eagles produced the best football season Somerset has enjoyed for ten years.

The campaign began by handing a setback to Cambria Heights. Two weeks later the Eagle underdogs earned a tough victory over Forest Hills in what Coach Brougher called "a big game". The Eagles rolled on to three straight shutouts, dumping Richland, Windber and Ligonier. Next they demolished county rival North Star. The season finale matched the once-beaten Eagles against once-beaten Conemaugh Township. Somerset came out on the short end of the seesaw battle, which had them leading 21-20 with three minutes to play.

Eight Eagles received All-County honors, including Mark Baker, Greg Stern, Greg Baughman, Steve Morocco, Blase Cindric, Wade Acker, and Bob Hetrick, County MVP. Jay Uphouse earned honorable mention.

Bob Hetrick, with sixty points, tied for eighth in district scoring, while Blase Cindric led the district in place-kicking with twenty-two extra points and a field goal.

The Golden Eagles finished third of eighteen in the Mountain Conference and fourth of thirty-two in the Western Conference.

Basketball Team Defeats Everett To Qualify

Mrs. Nancy Hay coached the 1977 girls' basketball team to a fine record of 14-2. The Eagles started returning senior letter winners Lisa Clay, Gretchen Mayer, Jackie Pickett and Lori Weimer. Rounding out the starting five was sophomore Billie Stutzman. The team started the season with six consecutive wins, when their first challenge came from the Shanksville Vikings, a powerhouse who was also undefeated. The girls lost that game, but got back on the winning trail, losing only once more before their second showdown with the Vikings. Showing hustle and determination, the Eagles handed Shanksville their only loss of the regular season. The girls went on to Windber to compete in the District V playoff tournament. By defeating Everett 44-42, they advanced to the finals of the tourney, where they would play Bedford. Somerset lost to the Bisons 44-31, but still qualified for the state playoffs.

This year's J.V. team led by new coach Tracy Gnagy, finished with a 15-1 slate, including fourteen wins in a row. Their only loss was to Shankville. They came back in the season finale to defeat Salisbury 41-7, proving to be a solid nucleus for next year's team.

Lisa Clay Elected County MVP After Spikers

The girls volleyball team finished their second successful season with a smashing 12-0 record. Under the guidance of coach Nancy Hay, the team clinched the Somerset County League title, but were defeated by the Everett Warriors in the District V playoffs. The highlight of the season was the victory over Shanksville which qualified our spikers to participate in the playoffs. Junior Lisa Clay was voted Most Valuable Player in the county league. Other members of the first team All-County squad from Somerset were junior Jackie Pickett and sophomore Joan Meyer. Named to the second team was junior Gretchen Mayer. Senior Carol McCullar and junior Lori Weimer completed the varsity starting line-up.

The varsity squad was not the only one to shine for Somerset this season. The junior varsity team waltzed through their schedule with a 12-0 record. Since this year's team contained many members with talent, it was necessary to have a large junior varsity team consisting of twenty-four girls.

The varsity team has never lost a contest, while the junior varsity has been defeated only once in the two-year history of volleyball here at SAHS.

Senior Greg Beals Competes For Second Year

Somerset's golf team finished its 1977 season with an 8-2 record, both losses coming at the hands of Bedford, the District V champions.

The team, backed by returning lettermen Greg Beals, Wayne Broadwater and Dick Shaffer, included four seniors and four juniors. They got off to a rocky start by dropping their first match to Bedford, but came back to win seven of the remaining eight matches. The highlight of the season was the back-to-back shutouts against Berlin and Rockwood. In addition to regular season play the golf team participated in the Dr. George F. Wheeling tournament and the District V championship tournament. In the Wheeling tournament, the Eagles placed 16th out of 26 teams. The District V match saw the team finish third out of six teams. Only Greg Beals, coming in third at the district match, qualified for the state finals. John Emert earned the position of second alternate to the states.

Eagles Are Runners-Up In Christmas Tournament

Headed by first-year mentor Robert Sembower, Somerset finished the season with a 10-12 record. In the season opener, the Golden Eagles crushed North Star 101-79, with brilliant execution of the fast break. They reeled off a 6-1 record going into the Punxsytawney Christmas Tournament. After a thrilling 72-71 victory over Marion Center, they fell to the homestanding Chucks in the championship game. Then the team hit a skid, losing 7 out of 8 games before the victory over Meyersdale. They were .500 in their last six games.

In the District VI playoffs, they faced the Tyrone Golden Eagles in the opening round, but came up short in their bid to advance.

Coach Sam Crouse's JV Eagles finished a fine season, sporting an 11-8 record.

William Carr Takes Over As Head Wrestling Coach

The wrestling team, guided by their new head coach, Mr. William Carr, finished the 1977-78 season with a 12-2 record. After assisting Mr. James McCall for 4 years, Mr. Carr moved to the head position after the resignation of Mr. McCall. Co-Captains of this year's squad were seniors Marshall Harrington and Mark Baker. Only juniors Barry Hemminger and Tom Baer survived this year's tough schedule with one loss. Several wrestlers lost only two regular season matches.

This year's Christmas tournament was considered a success, although no Eagle matmen copped first place honors. Marshall Harrington and Barry Hemminger both made the finals, but both were defeated, Hemminger losing a close overtime match.

In District V competition Mark Baker and Tom Baer emerged as champions, while Charlie Foust ended as runner-up. Baker finished second in regionals.

The Eagles trailed 2-1 in the last inning when Lisa Clay singled to left field. Lee Ann Walker followed with a double to score Clay. Joan Meyer then doubled to bring in Walker with the winning run. The Eagles were the champions of the league. Later the same day they visited Meyersdale to play for the county title. Powered by Lee Ann Walker's home run to center field, Somerset won 5-3 to wrap up the season. Lee Ann Walker was named Most Valuable Player for her consistency at the plate and in the field.

The 1976 Eagle track team under Head Coach Dave Maize and Assistant Coach Robert Sembower posted an undefeated season. With fourteen meet wins, the Eagles have now won thirty-six straight dual meets, their string dating back to 1974.

Led by Captain Neil Shockey and Co-captain Chuck Baker, the Eagles broke five school records. Neil Shockey broke the record in the mile run, topping a thirty-one year old mark. Jon Lape also broke the two-mile run record.

Three relay records made the books during the season; the 880-relay of Charlie Howard, Greg Svonavec, Bryan Walker and Chuck Baker; the mile relay of Greg Svonavec, Steve Morocco, Neil Shockey and Tom Custer; and the two-mile relay of Jeff Catanese, Tom Stoltz, Tom Custer and John McNaul.

Eagle cindermen won first place trophies at the Mountain Conference Relays, the Mountain Conference Championship Meet, the Mountain Conference Track and Field Meet, the Somerset County Meet and the District V Championship Meet.

Twelve members qualified for the state meet at Shippensburg, with Neil Shockey taking fifth in the mile, Steve Morocco sixth in the triple jump and the team of Greg Svonavec, Steve Morocco, Neil Shockey and Tom Custer taking fifth in the mile relay.

Steve Morocco stretches for the last inch in the triple jump.

Intramurals Provide Team, Individual Competition

Due to the earlier start of school this year it was impossible for the girls to participate in intramurals, but the boys faithfully continued the program, held before school each morning under the supervision of Mr. David Maize. The program included volleyball as well as singles and doubles competition in handball and paddleball. The process of double eliminations made this year's competition stiff. Gym class winners continued in intramural competition with the hope of capturing the school championship.

Junior high students passed their spare time before morning classes participating in intramurals. Mr. Edward Joseph and Mrs. Jean Gerber supervised a wide variety of sports including volleyball, doubles and singles table tennis, co-ed volleyball, basketball and tennis. Trophies provided by the Student Council and the Pep Club crowned champions of each event at the spring awards assembly.

The purpose of intramural sports is to give more students the opportunity to participate in competitive athletics than those who are active in interscholastic sports.

Pep Squads Design Signs, Plan Assemblies

Varsity and junior varsity cheerleading squads aided by Sammy Eagle promoted school spirit during the sports seasons. Under the supervision of Mrs. Elaine Blank the cheerleaders spent much of their time making signs for display throughout the school, planning pep assemblies, and cheering for our teams at regular events.

Both squads traveled to Seven Springs for the annual cheerleading clinic in November to learn new cheers, chants and pom-pom routines.

The varsity squad added flair to their style with new black jumpers tied at the sides and accented with orange turtlenecks. This year's squad consisted of five seniors and four juniors headed by Captain Lisa Schrock and Co-Captain Gayle Shockey.

Gayle Shockey and Lisa Schrock work together as co-captain and captain of the varsity cheerleading squad.

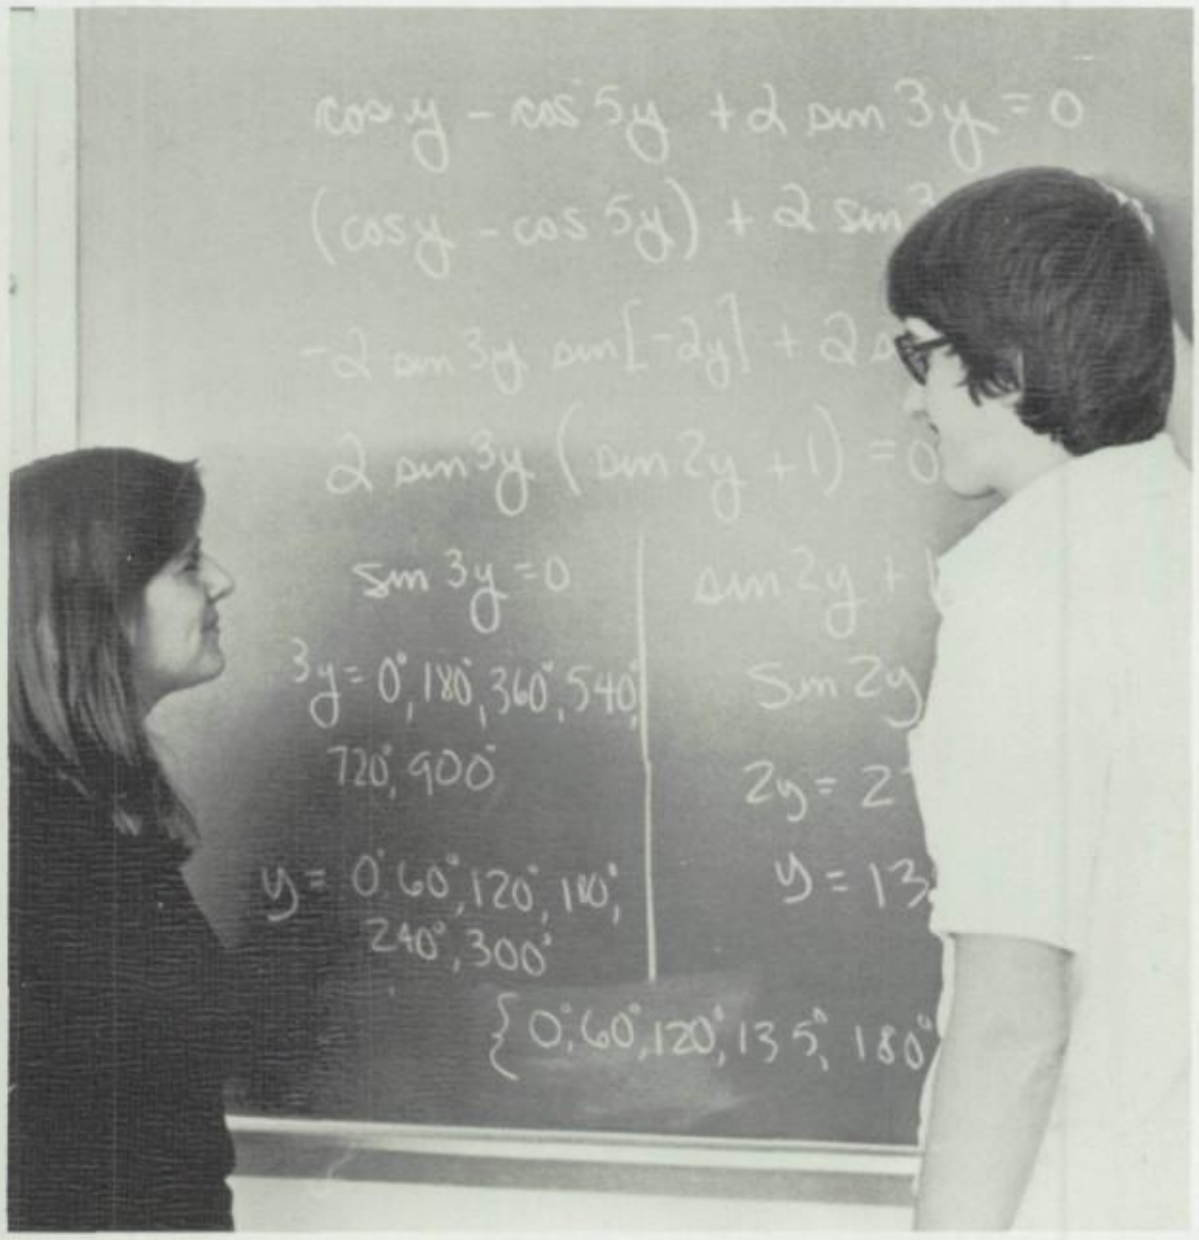
Junior High Students Learn New Math Methods

Stacey Dinning is puzzled as Fred Bean describes how he solved a trig problem consisting of sines and cosines.



Seniors taking on trigonometry came upon functions such as sine, cosine and tangent, which they had not seen before this point in their mathematics careers. Twenty-eight seniors furthered their specialization through the advanced math course, an exciting challenge with the bonus of membership in Mu Alpha Theta, national mathematics club.

Academic students entering the senior high waded into geometry, using theorems and postulates to arrive at conclusions. Algebra II students expanded upon their number system by using reals, imaginaries and complex numbers, while depending on factoring.

Ninth graders pursued Algebra I, while seventh and eighth graders worked with percentages. Business students learned techniques and methods with numbers to make business transactions faster and less complicated.

Science Courses Mirror Technological Progress

In a world of ever increasing science technology Somerset schools provided a course that touches on subjects needed to build a strong foundation in this area.

Seventh and eighth graders had the opportunity to learn more about their specific interests through individualized study. Freshmen studied earth science and introductory biology. In lab biology sophomores worked on assigned projects involving leaf and wild flower collections. Chemical equations and lab problems challenged eleventh grade chemistry students as they joined their efforts in varied experiments. Seniors planning on further specialization in the science field elected physics or advanced science. These classes prepared students for science-oriented college programs through involved study.

Varied Studies Cover History, Government

Subject matter taught in this year's history courses ranged from profiles of ancient civilizations to modern day governmental problems.

Seventh graders studied the development and structure of early civilizations. Eighth graders looked into American history by studying about explorers and the development of America up to the Civil War era. Freshmen gained an insight into American government through courtroom simulations and reports on contemporary problems. No longer a separate course, geography was an integral part of all these studies.

Sophomores looked into the history of selected foreign countries. The causes and effects of the World Wars were an important consideration. Juniors took on American history from the Revolutionary War period to modern times.

The constitution and the three major branches of government were among subjects studied during POD first semester. Federal and state income taxes were ammunition for practice and discussion by the seniors in the second semester.

Projectors, Layouts Help Visualize Concepts

Junior high students divided their time between grammar and literature over a period of two semesters. Freshmen learned various ways to write poetry and prose as they practiced their skills in creative writing classes. Actors of the ninth grade elected speech/dramatics, where they performed skits and pantomimes.

Senior high students electing American literature I or II received more in-depth instruction in full-year courses. Elizabethan and Victorian literature were highlights of English literature I and II.

Juniors prepared for future work on the school yearbook and newspaper staffs as seniors struggled to meet Eaglet and "Eagle's Echo" deadlines, meanwhile pursuing academic English studies.

Academic Students Elect Accounting, Typing

During the school year business students had ample courses to choose from. Among the offerings were business and personal typing, accounting, math, salesmanship, English and shorthand. The business department changed the titles of the bookkeeping courses to Accounting I and II. This was in keeping with a nationwide shift. Currently more and more academic students have been taking Accounting I, with some going on to Accounting II for more depth in the subject.

Basically, general and academic students elected personal typing, a semester course for self-enrichment. A full-year business course, Typing II dealt with typing applications from Typing I, its pre-requisite. Shorthand I and II, along with salesmanship, also widened opportunities for business students to prepare for the world of commerce.

Language Neophytes Improve Their Performance

Junior high students studied German, French and Spanish to form a basis for the three senior high languages they could later elect. Language students participated in conversations and songs to broaden their use of foreign speech. History of foreign countries also became clearer through films and conversations.

Meanwhile, those senior high students who had elected a foreign language were busy learning speech, structure, and literature. French students planned a trip to Europe for the upcoming summer. They hoped to visit England, France, Italy and Switzerland.

They also took an April trip to Washington, D.C. and Williamsburg, Virginia.

Junior high special education students mainstreamed into regular courses according to their capabilities. This allowed them to develop their strengths in areas in which they were most experienced and interested through an individualized approach. Meanwhile senior high special education students experienced on-the-job training every morning. This work-study program gave students a better understanding of the working world by providing them with opportunities to experience various job placements.

The past has proven the work experience approach successful, in that 95% of its graduates are now employed at their previous job-work placements. Attending class in the afternoons, they studied subjects pertaining to their needs in the main areas of academic work.

Vo-Tech Offers Broad Selection Of Skill Courses

Many students chose to prepare themselves for jobs immediately following graduation without the need for any further education by enrolling at the Somerset Vocational Technical School. Students pursuing this course attended the Vo-Tech school for one week and then returned to Somerset Senior High for the next week, where they followed a basic academic program including POD, economics, English, science and math. This alternate schedule continued throughout the year.

While at Vo-Tech, students concentrated in one area of the twenty-two course curriculum. This program included such areas as shop skills, food preparation, advanced office technology, cosmetology, masonry and electrical occupations.

This type of course enabled students to become experienced in technical areas, but also prepared them for further education if they chose it by giving them the necessary academic background. After graduation many students continued the jobs which they had filled while a part of the vo-tech distributive education program.

Home Ec Classes Sew, Cook, Practice Child Care

Group discussions are a change of pace for Mrs. McNaul's foods class.

Junior high girls kept seam rippers handy as they concentrated on mastering the basics of sewing. During foods classes they practiced table manners while eating self-prepared meals. In addition to varied menus, students created centerpieces to add color to their meals.

Preschool children visited the senior high home economics room to take part in nursery school classes conducted by child development students. Those planning futures involving children gained valuable experience under the guidance of Mrs. Marjorie Ankney. A formal graduation ended nursery school studies with each child receiving a diploma. Senior high clothing and foods students added to their skills as they tackled individual projects.

Senior High Phys Ed Class Offers Dance And Swimming

Both senior and junior high phys ed classes participated in the annual national physical fitness tests. Students who scored high on the tests won patches and trophies.

When the senior high classes went coed for a twelve-week period during the middle of the year, students spent time in both dancing and swimming. Mrs. Hay taught the polka plus a few variations of the three and four step slow dance. Mr. Carr taught swimmers the American crawl, the backstroke and the sidestroke.

Senior high boys worked on handball and battleball under Mr. Maize's supervision while senior high girls honed their paddleball skills.

Junior high boys combined work on the apparatus with learning basic wrestling moves. Basketball and gymnastics were among the activities of the junior high girls.

Anatomy And Health Research New Techniques

Students in junior high classes learned about the development of new health related techniques and machines through current event reports given by class members. They reviewed basic hygiene concepts and various emergency procedures, while learning how to keep their bodies physically, mentally and emotionally fit.

Sophomores made an in-depth study of the harmful effects of alcohol, tobacco and drugs. They filled out their investigation by considering emotional and nutritional problems.

Seniors who wished to specialize in health careers elected anatomy. Here they learned about the separate body systems through discussions, study guides and laboratory situations.

Reading Makes Library Use Profitable

Both the junior and senior high libraries were student oases for research and reference. Students partly filled leisure time by reading many of the fascinating books available on loan from the libraries.

Seventh and eighth graders increased their reading speed and comprehension by working their way through the SRA laboratory program. Students also worked on increasing their vocabularies with varied phonetics drills.

For those who needed special assistance, compensatory reading was available. Special audio-visual aids and tape recorders were instrumental in developing the reading skills essential to all successful school work.

Music Study Stresses Theory, Practice, Performance

Chorus, orchestra and band provided an outlet for those interested in the field of music. Each, along with its special groups such as jazz band, touring choir and ensembles, aided in developing student abilities and interests. Long hours of practice prepared students for various performances throughout the year.

Senior high students with a special ear for music were able to elect music theory and appreciation. This course, instructed by Mr. Herbert McDowell, emphasized harmony and composition.

General music classes were a part of the junior high curriculum. In this course, Mr. John Dice, Mrs. Jennie Harris and Mr. Robert Griffith attempted to increase in their students the understanding and enjoyment of music. Using film strips and records, students experienced musical styles ranging from modern rock to classical ballet.

Many senior high students were able to elect one or more art courses, where they undertook advanced projects such as sculptures, ceramics, painting, macramé and silkscreening.

In March they participated in the Dressler Center Art Show exhibiting their best offerings. They also followed an annual custom with a trip to Carnegie Art Museum. Art students displayed their projects during Band and Chorus concerts as well as on Open House night. Student artists decorated portions of the State Hospital and McDonald's windows for seasonal projects.

Industrial Arts Challenge Creative Students

Junior high shop students learned basic skills in metal and woodworking. Metal shop students practiced how to cut, solder, rivet and weld, so that they could make simple projects. Wood shop students learned how to cut, surface, and plane boards.

Senior high classes put these basic skills to use in the designing and building of more advanced individual projects.

Junior high mechanical drawing students developed their skills in the use of basic drafting tools and concepts. Instruction in drawing straight lines with the T square and constructing various types of curves and angles allowed them to construct simple drawings. Senior high students pursued an in-depth study of the history of drafting. Students put skills they had learned in junior high to use in designing and drawing house plans and complex drawings. Students also learned how to read and understand industrial blueprints.

Vo-Ag Balances Classwork With Activities

Students in this year's vocational agriculture course spent three periods a day in ag classes. Studies and activities covered in the course were plant science, supervised work experience, FFA activities and agriculture mechanics, with emphasis on small gas engines.

For supervised work experience, students planned a practical program during class which they carried through outside of school. The programs could deal with crop or livestock raising. However, instead of planning a program, some students chose to work at agriculture-related jobs. In either case, students kept record books of the number of hours they worked on their programs or at their jobs.

Elwood Swank keeps a running total of the vegetable seed orders while John Shaulis reads off the numbers.

"Drive To Stay Alive" Is Keynote Motto

All sophomores studied problems in highway safety. This course provided basic driving fundamentals necessary before climbing into the driver's seat. With emphasis on individual responsibility, Mr. Maslak and Mr. Pfeffer taught future motorists that the driving privilege should be respected.

After successful completion of highway safety, students encountered actual on-the-road experiences in driver training. All students who qualified for the course had either a license or a driving permit. This status was more difficult to attain because of a change in procedure that required every permit applicant to first pass an oral test. At the end of one semester most students received a driving certificate which guaranteed lower insurance rates.

Board Eyes Future, Adds To Present Facilities

Mr. Grant Sloan, Superintendent

In a busy year the Somerset Area School Board accomplished several steps toward improving conditions throughout Somerset schools. With an eye to approaching conditions, they retained Architect Richard Ross to study our system and present a plan to replace Union and Patriot Street elementary schools, along with recommendations for either remodeling or replacing the junior high school.

The board named Mr. Thomas Brown bus transportation supervisor and assistant to Senior High Principal William Kuhlman.

In addition to expanding the elementary remedial reading program, the board made improvements in the sports area. Entering a contract under Title Six, they hired workmen who improved softball fields at Friedens and the high school, built a handball-racquetball wall at the senior high and worked on athletic facilities, including the field house.

In November the board acquired three new members, Mr. Frank Famariss, Mr. Wilson Meyers and Mr. Lloyd Sturdevant.

Career Information, Health Services Offered

Reliable is the word to describe our secretaries. Through the school year Mrs. Vera Myers was busy typing and keeping files and records in order for David McCall, junior high counselor. Mrs. Phyllis Miller, guidance secretary to Mr. Colliver and Mrs. Kemp, was a valuable advisor in the guidance resource room. College-bound students found leaflets, books and references of the schools of their choice there.

Working beside Mrs. Miller was Miss Sue Webreck. As guidance resource aide, she helped locate information concerning schools, careers, scholarships and grants for inquiring students.

Mrs. Marian Weicht, junior high guidance resource aide, ran the junior high federal free lunch program and career resource center, while lending a hand to office secretaries.

The hearing, vision, weight and height of each student was checked by Mrs. Shirley Keafer, R.N. Employed by the Pennsylvania Department of Health, Mrs. Keafer also took care of student sicknesses and assisted with athletic and junior class physicals.

"I was just wondering . . ." was a familiar phrase in school guidance offices. Students were encouraged by Mr. David McCall, seventh and eighth grade counselor.

Mrs. Carol Kemp, ninth and tenth grade guidance counselor, helped decide career choices and course selections. She also scheduled visits by admissions representatives from a wide variety of schools.

College boards were administered with the help of Mr. Richard Colliver, the junior-senior counselor. He regularly visited English classes, where he distributed information on schools, tests and financial aid.

Mr. Philip Holsinger, home and school visitor, took care of the daily routine concerning student attendance and investigated truancy.

Administrative assistant Mr. Thomas Brown was in charge of audio-visual equipment. As head of the transportation department, he helped find solutions to bus problems.

Office, Service Staffs Keep Wheels Running

People behind successfully completed tasks were repeatedly found to be secretaries. Teachers and students could rely on them to answer questions and still type, call, correspond and duplicate. The administrators' secretaries helped reduce heavy work loads.

Cafeteria personnel prepared nutritious and tasty meals each day. The menu was announced each morning to inform students of the fare. Cheerful signs in the cafeteria and decorations for holidays were appreciated by all who passed through the lines.

The custodians were busy nearly any time of day or night, polishing, sweeping floors and washing blackboards. They were on hand to lock and unlock doors for special evening meetings and programs.

Local Group Tease Plays For Council Dance

Dances, a card sale, assemblies and a newly formed Teacher-Student Relations Committee kept the junior high Student Council alive and busy this year.

The announcement board helped students stay up to date on current activities and future events.

Sponsored by the Council, Dress-up Day and Clash Day boosted morale and provided extra fun.

Special activities included a visit to the Ice Capades in the Johnstown War Memorial and a trip to a Pirate baseball game at Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh.

Selling popcorn and snowcones at football games and dances along with a Christmas card sale helped finance Student Council activities through the year.

Council members helped Santa through the annual door decorating contest and Christmas dance.

Assemblies included a gymnast who demonstrated simple gymnastic skills and a film festival which featured full length movies.

The Teacher-Student Relations Committee, headed by Mr. James Hostetler and Co-Chairman Yvonne May, met weekly to discuss possibilities of scheduling a free period for clubs and special activities.

Adept Student Artists Build Clay Pyramids

Art Club members Jerry Onstead and Jill Johnson finish their work on a model car and a pastel.

Junior High Art Club got underway this year with a total of twenty-four members. Prospective members were required to apply for a spot on the club roster because of a great amount of interest coupled with limited space and facilities.

Ten freshmen, ten eighth graders and four seventh graders were chosen from the applicants, six returning from last year to further their artistic interests and performance.

In the spring, club members visited Sarah Scaife Gallery in Pittsburgh. The trip exposed students to art of various kinds and allowed them to gain a better understanding of art in its many forms.

One club group activity included painting a mural near the gym. Individual projects ranged from drawing and crafts to sculpture, jewelry and painting. Other group projects included jewelry casting, batik and designing clay pottery.

Library Aides Work On Six-Week Rotation

Heading Library Club this year are Liz Wilcox, Becky Bennett, Linda Bell and Advisor Mrs. Finnette Egolf.

With more personnel than ever before, advisor Mrs. Finnette Egolf and her eighty member club helped to keep the junior high library in running condition. During regular school hours they carried out duties which ranged from working at the circulation desk, shelving books, typing overdue notices, working with index cards, and decorating the bulletin board to processing new books.

Because of the number of members, the students rotated on a six-week basis in the performance of their duties in the library. Library Club activities were organized by President Linda Bell, Vice President Liz Wilcox and Secretary-Treasurer Becky Bennett, all freshmen chosen by the second and third year members.

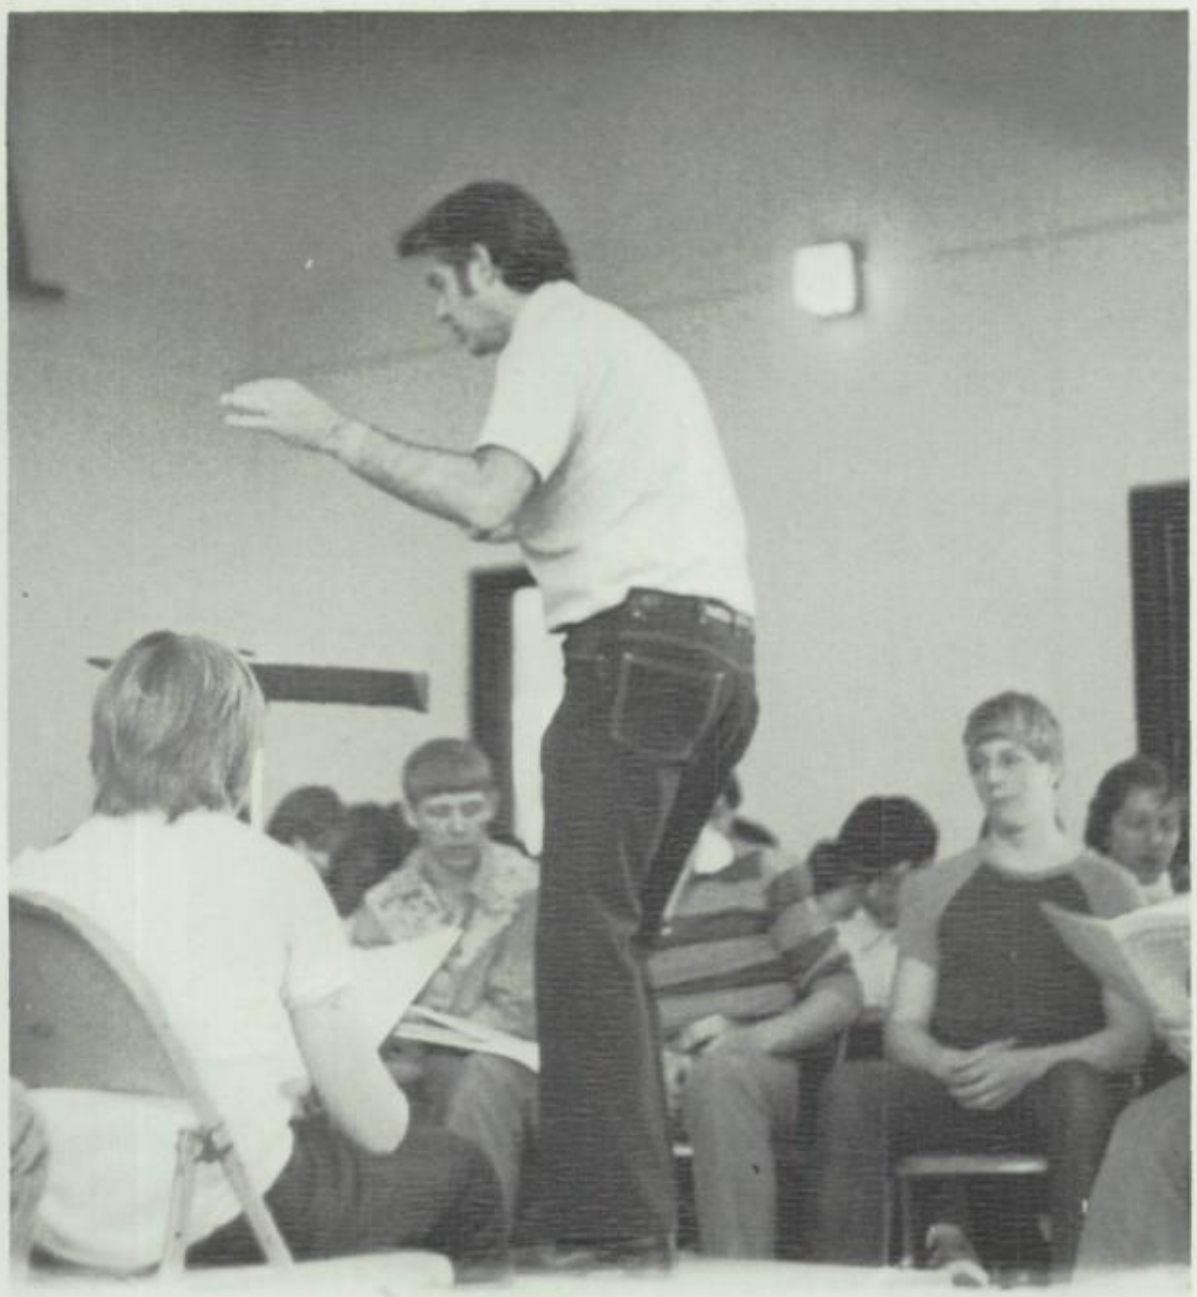
Choral Group Presents Concert For Parents

The bass section of the junior high chorus laugh at themselves as they come in on a soprano cue. Choral director Mr. Jack Dice sings "Drummer Boy" along with the tenors.



"Children Go Where I Send Thee," "Drummer Boy," "No Mountain High Enough," and "Go Ye Into All the World" highlighted this year's choral performances sung in a Christmas concert for the student body and in the spring for the community.

Under the leadership of Mr. Jack Dice, the chorus had only one rehearsal a week to learn and put finishing touches on their songs. The girls ensemble singing "A Time For Joy," and the boys ensemble performing in the spring gave an extra flair to their presentations.

Accompanists for the year were Jill Johnson, Vaughn Keim and Mark Schrock.

Band Entertains At North Star Football Game

This year's junior high bands sparked enthusiasm throughout the school year. Their performances at pep assemblies aroused school spirit to cheer the teams on to winning seasons. Sixty newly initiated members made up the seventh grade band, while the eighth-ninth grade band consisted of 125 musicians.

Under the direction of Mr. Robert Griffith, the eighth-ninth band added pizzazz to the Halloween parade. They also highlighted the North Star football game as they played fight songs and victory yells. At half-time the majorettes entertained with a special baton routine.

Both bands performed at the annual spring concert, which ended a busy and successful year.

The ninth graders are all ready for the big jump to senior high band next year.

During an instrumental lesson, Brenda Miller practices her band music.

First chair members include (top) Troy Miller, Vaughn Keim, Jane Cober, Yvonne May, Susan Hoffman, Debbie Stahl, (bottom) Vince Jacob, Debbie Dancho, Mark B. Schrock, Ann Keafer, Debbie Shaffer, Debbie Schreckengost, Michelle Petrosky and Terissa Kelly.

Orchestra Musicians Aid In Commencement

Mr. McDowell works with the junior high orchestra as they rehearse for the upcoming spring concert.

The junior high orchestra under the baton of Mr. Herbert McDowell highlighted the year with their annual spring concert. In its third year under Mr. McDowell's direction, the orchestra was comprised of approximately fifty seventh, eighth and ninth grade students.

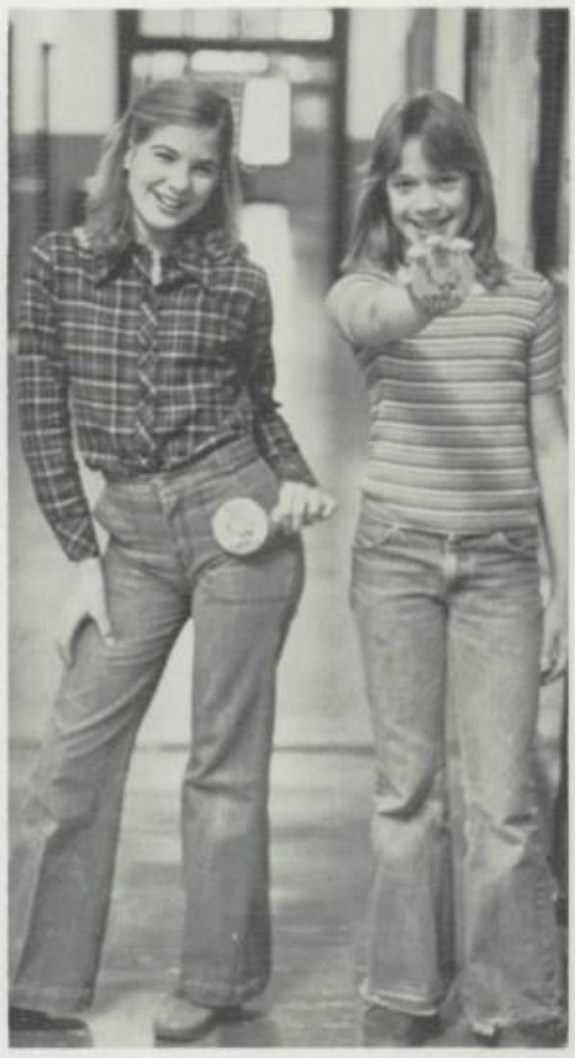
This year several members traveled to Altoona to take part in the Tri-County Orchestra. They practiced on March 31 and gave their concert performance on April 1.

The junior high group is principally a preparatory orchestra which gives its members experience for the senior high orchestra. Somerset has the only junior high orchestra program in the county.

Mrs. Jenny Harris contributed greatly to the success of the junior orchestra through her private teaching of the stringed instruments.

Selected junior high musicians participated in the Baccalaureate and Commencement orchestra.

Advisor Mrs. Hutzell distributes pom-poms and orange and black handkerchiefs to Vice-President Rosemarie Graham, Secretary Roxann Sipe and Brenda Collins to sell at the basketball game after school.



Loyal Eagle fans Chris Adams and Charlene Acker show off their Pep Club buttons.

Pep Clubbers Perform, Paint, Sell, Support

The junior high Pep Club lifted school spirit as they helped the cheerleaders support the various teams. Performing skits at pep assemblies and making posters for games were ways they showed the athletes that the student body was behind them.

To earn money for their projects, club members sold Christmas cards, sweat shirts and wool jackets. They also paid yearly dues. The ninety-six participants could easily be picked out of a crowd by the enthusiasm they showed and by their Pep Club identification buttons.

Poster Captain Tracy Halbrook, Co-captain Jocelyn Cube, President Wendy Walker and Treasurer Gina Lowry add finishing touches to a pep poster.

Majorettes, Cheerleaders Add Color And Pep

Majorettes include (front) Pam Williams, Libby Boxler, (back) Sue Hay, Janie Ross, Brenda Collins, Lisa Barndt, Jane Cober and Kimmy Barefoot.

Cheerleaders aroused the spirit of both students and the little Eagles under the direction of Mrs. Pam Diesel, with Rita Acker as head cheerleader. The girls went to camp during the summer to learn new cheers and perfect old stand-bys. They also attended a cheerleading clinic on November 12 at Seven Springs, where they learned a variety of new cheers, chants and pom-pom routines.

The majorettes under Mr. Robert Griffith's direction led the band through the Halloween and Memorial Day parades, with Pam Williams as head majorette. They highlighted the night football game with Bedford as they presented their routine for the half-time show.

1978 cheerleaders are (back) Gina Lowry, Wendy Walker, Rita Acker, Yvonne May, JoEllen Troy, (front) Sharon Rizzo, Beth Bulow, Linda Schrock and Carolyn Barndt.

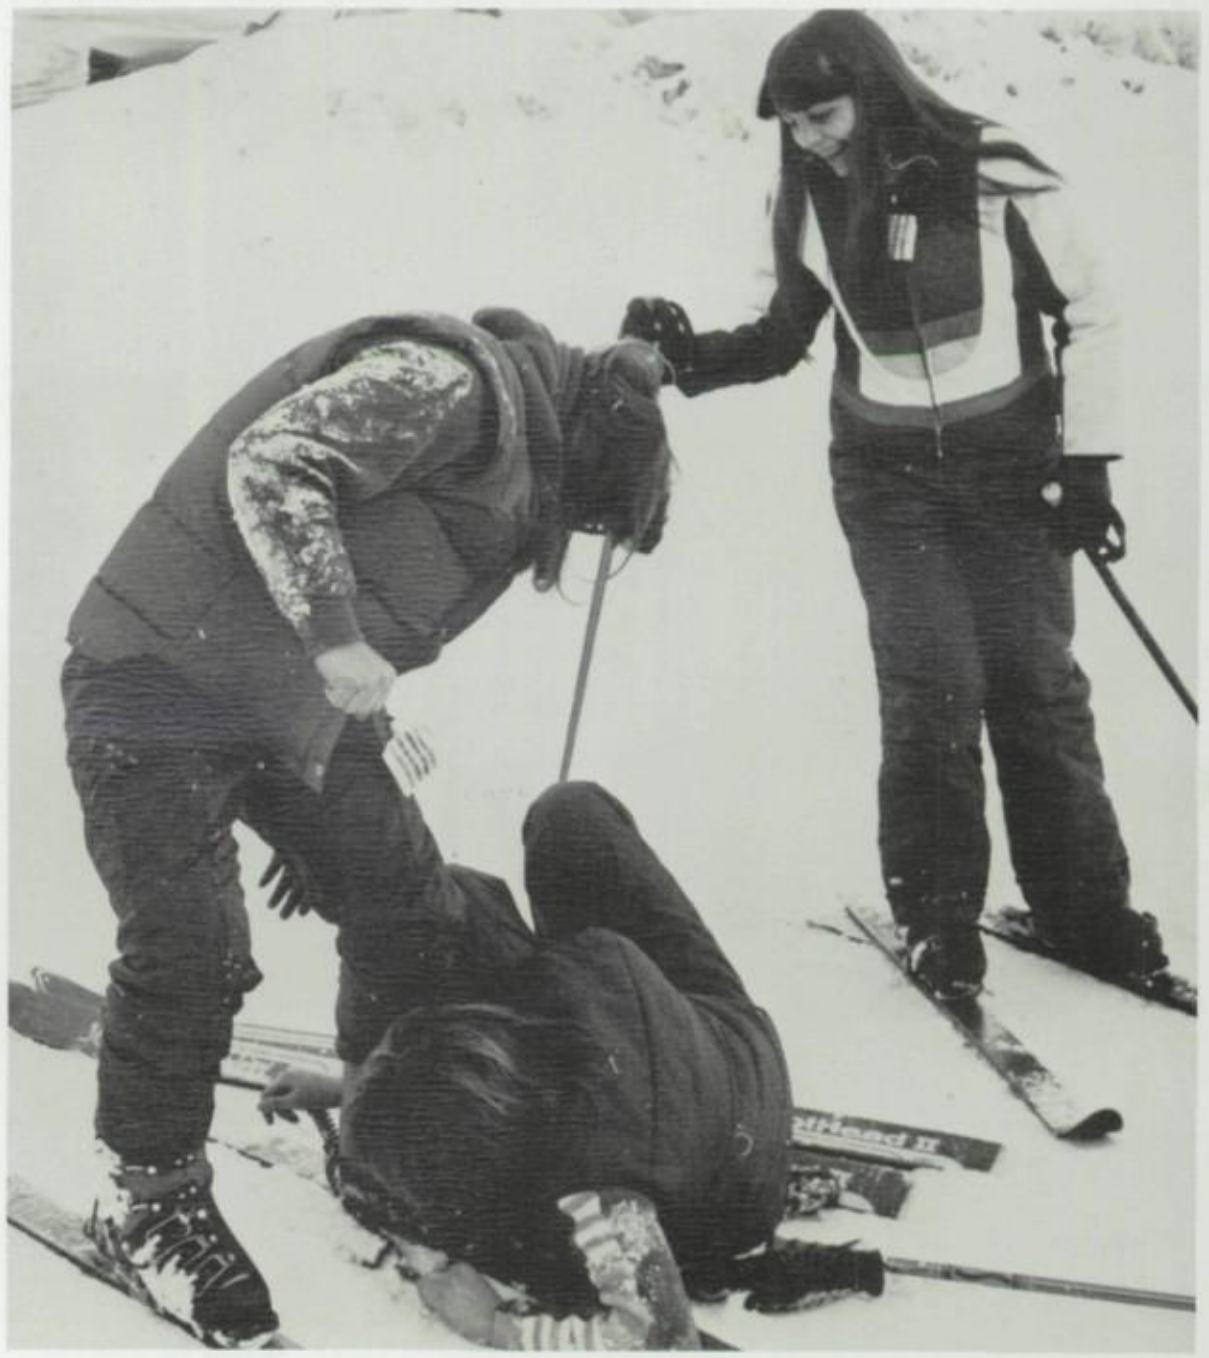
Junior High Ski Club Heads For Local Slopes

Advised by Mr. Jon Critchfield, junior high Ski Club got underway after being held up by snow and missed days. After-school bus trips to Hidden Valley became a bright spot on the winter calendar. Skiing for five lessons, beginner students learned fundamental maneuvers such as the snow plow, snow plow turns and stem cristies. More advanced students practiced parallels, parallel turns and pole planting. President Verna Polakoski, Vice President Teresa Roach, Secretary Ann Friedhofer and Treasurer Sandy Bishop promoted interest in the club, took care of arrangements for trips and kept club records.

Carol Lamberson and Brenda Benny explain to Elizabeth Critchfield that the first step in learning to ski is to get on your feet.



Club Manned By Junior And Senior High Members

Advised by Mr. Dale Phillippi and Mr. Jack DiGruttolo, this year's Archery Club provided an excellent opportunity for girls and boys of all grades interested in learning the technique and showmanship of an archer. Junior high members met during the newly formed activities period, and all members met on certain days after school to shoot their bows.

The club also had an annual tournament, where students competed against each other. Their goal for the year was to have a "wacky" shoot and a tournament against archers from other schools. Officers for this year included President Jim Onstead, Vice-President Barry Kister, Treasurer Greg Geary and Secretary Doug Shaffer.

Gridders Play Tough To Win First Three Games

This year's junior high footbal season was sparked by a 14-0 victory over the Richland Rams. Halfback Scott Lauer and fullback John Walker led the offense. Lauer scored a total of five touchdowns this season, while Walker showed some powerful running. Deceptive speed and agility led the Little Eagles to a 3-2 season. Leading the way for the running backs were linemen Grant Baer and Jeff Dunmyer. Coach John Minnich, Assistant Coach Jeff Ankney and fourty-four boys defeated their next two opponents with a come-from-behind victory over the Conemaugh Valley Blue Jays, 14-12, and a win over the Conemaugh Township Indians, 8-6. This set their record at 3-0. Their greatest loss came at the hands of the North Star Cougars, when they were routed 0-36. They fell again against the Bedford Bisons in a tough loss 8-6. Even though the young gridders' sports schedule was cut from eight games to five, because of the lack of funds, they practiced for eight straight weeks. In Coach Minnich's words, "The season was very successful."

Eagle Basketeers Surge Back In Close Games

Scott Mosholder (44) out-jumps his opponent during a jumpball while teammate Dave Orslene (22) stands ready.

After trailing by seven points in the fourth quarter, Richland came back to defeat the junior Eagles by one point. At both Bishop McCort and Garfield the junior high basketball team, led by Coach James Clay, came back from a twelve point deficit to pull to within three points. They lost to McCort by five and to Garfield by six at home. Playing through a tough season, they defeated Cochran, Meyersdale and Windber each twice.

With many weeks of only one game and some of no games, the Eagles maintained their consistent play. Quickness and agility were assets to the team. Their ability to fast break led to many of the games' high scores.

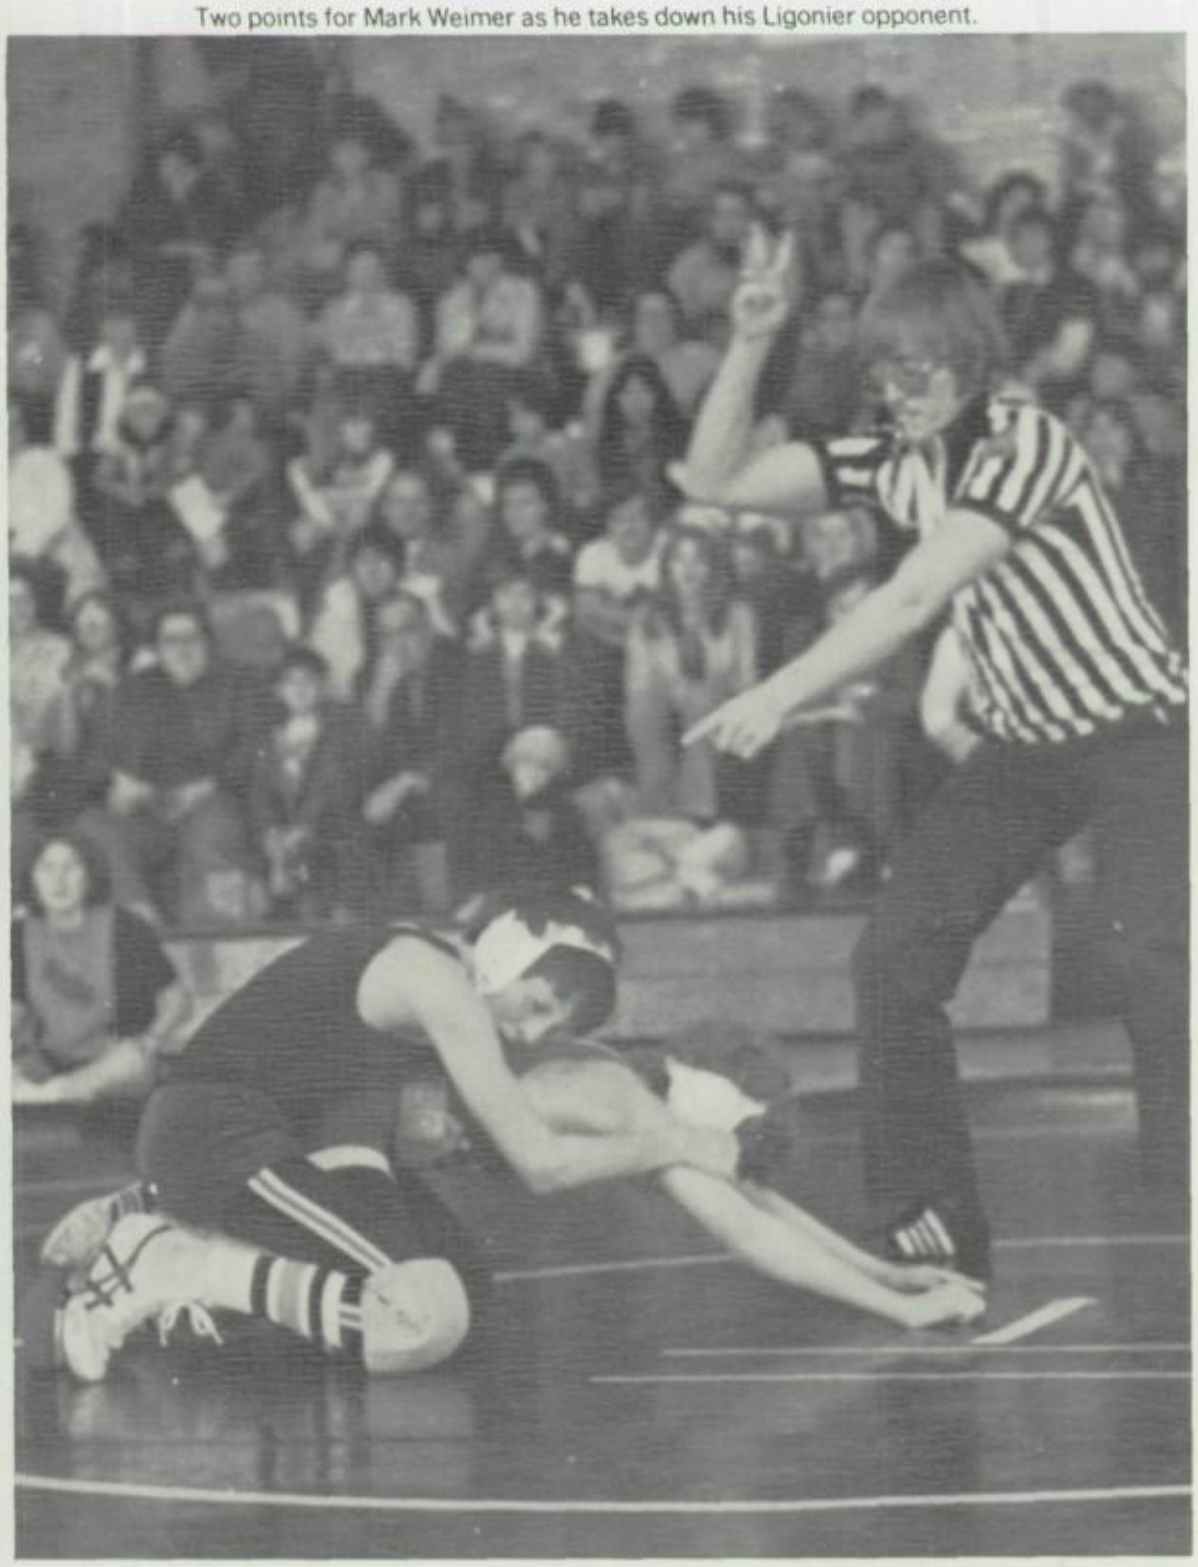
Two points for Mark Weimer as he takes down his Ligonier opponent.



With an undefeated season of 8-0, the Junior Eagles entered the Mountain Conference wrestling tournament, where they made a powerful showing with 237½ points. Twelve wrestlers advanced to the finals, with three winning their titles and posting undefeated records for the season. The other nine all won second places. Captains for the Little Eagles were John Walker and Grant Baer.

Highlighting the season was a victory over Cochran, 82-2. The high spirited tempo of the Eagle matmen overcame a newcomer to the junior grappler schedule, the Ligonier Mounties, in a stunning 62-20 victory.

Coach Richard Ross led the team to a second consecutive undefeated season and a Mountain Conference championship.

Team Posts Four Records In Shortened Season

With equal performance given by all, the little cindermen showed that winning is not the only important consideration. Chris Mapes broke the record in the 120-yard intermediate hurdles, where he was clocked at 17.4. He also sprinted to another successful record timing of 10.6 in the 70-yard high hurdles.

The Eagles broke the 440-yard relay record with a time of 48.35. The team consisted of Chris Mapes, Tom Shawley, Chris Stoltz and Russ DeWitt. Vince Jacob's high jump shattered the record held by Wally Miller since 1972 by a leap of 5'6".

Due to a lack of financial support, the junior high track season was reduced to only three meets.

Chris Mapes clears a hurdle with a Hollidaysburg opponent hot on his heels.

Again the Little Eagles dribbled to a successful season. In a year filled with high expectations they performed well, finishing with a record of eight wins and four losses.

The 28-30 loss to the Ligonier Mounties was labeled by Coach James Clay as the most crucial game of the season. At the beginning of the fourth quarter, Somerset was leading by a score of 26-14 when the bottom fell out. The Mounties tied it at the end of the fourth quarter, sending the game into overtime. The Eagle momentum had been stymied, and they finally lost by two points. The loss dropped Somerset out of the running for the Central Western League championship, where they ended in third place out of five teams.

Junior Eagles Play Through A Tough Schedule

During a time-out at Conemaugh Twp. Coach Clay repeats instructions for the offense that had proved successful in the first quarter.

Studying is not the only thing that students do in study hall.

A Somerset landmark, the Governor Theatre, makes way for another uptown parking lot.

Mike Angermeier sands his gun cabinet to an even finish.

Dave Walker experiments with dream patterns in current events class realization comes through trials that succeed or fail,

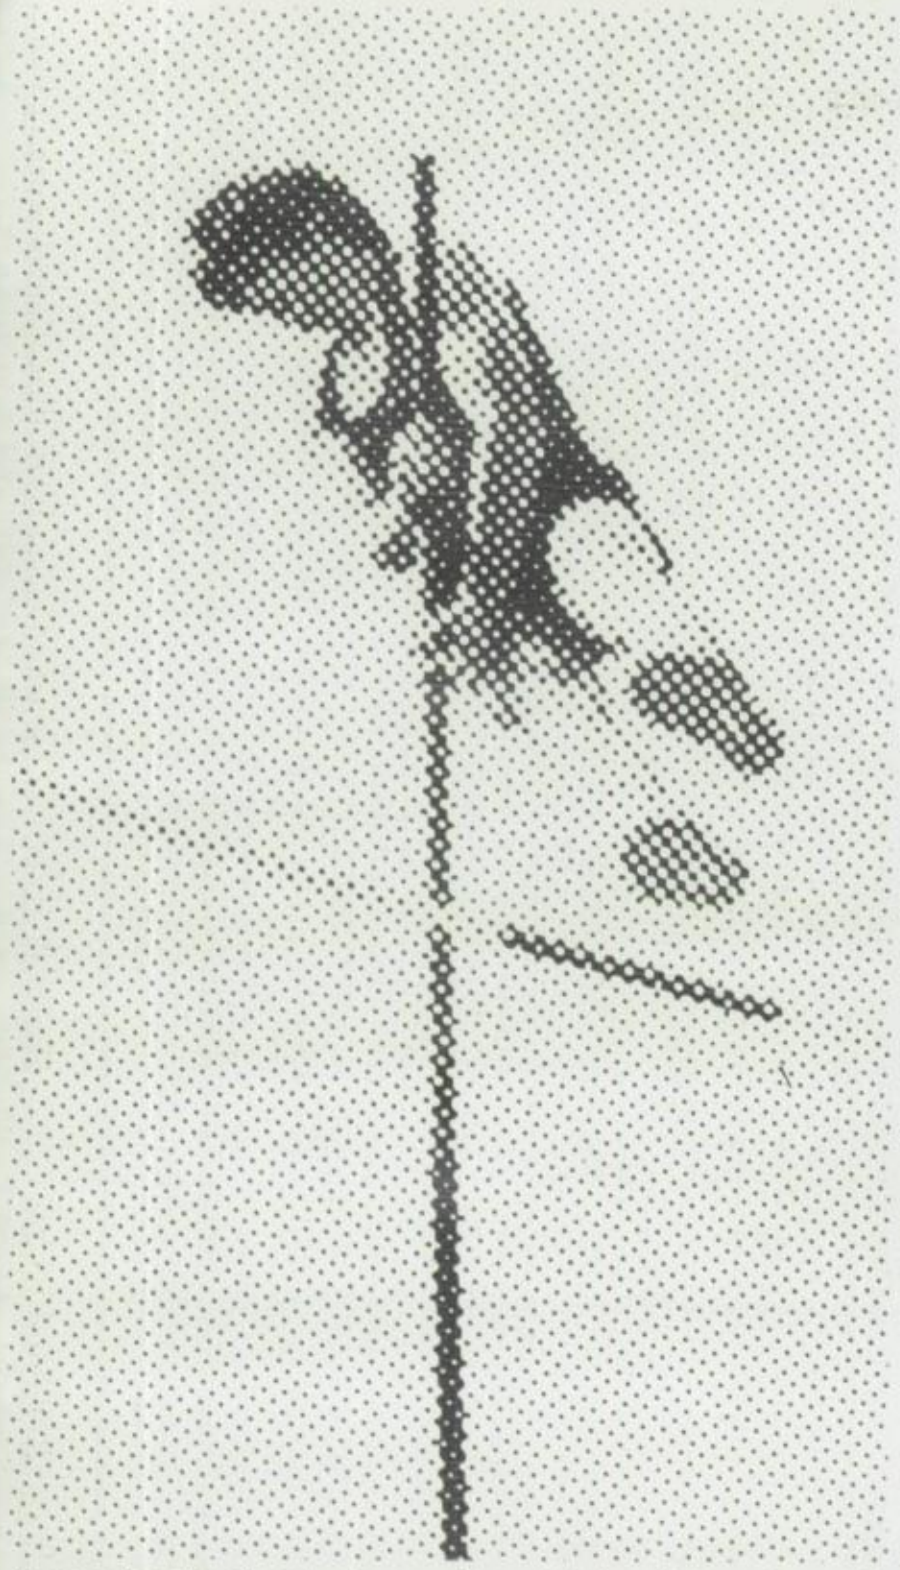
exalt or demean.
we strive for the pinnacle,
then find others soaring higher.
encouraged, we climb on.

High jumper Vince Jacob floats over the bar.

Seniors take care of a klutz in their chorus line during class play rehearsal.



Clearing the pole with inches to spare, Steve Hetrick vaults to a win over his Conemaugh Twp. opponent.

Standing on the tips of her toes, Lori Shockey manages a look over the main office counter top.

we discover that what we find has already been found by the eyes of the sun.
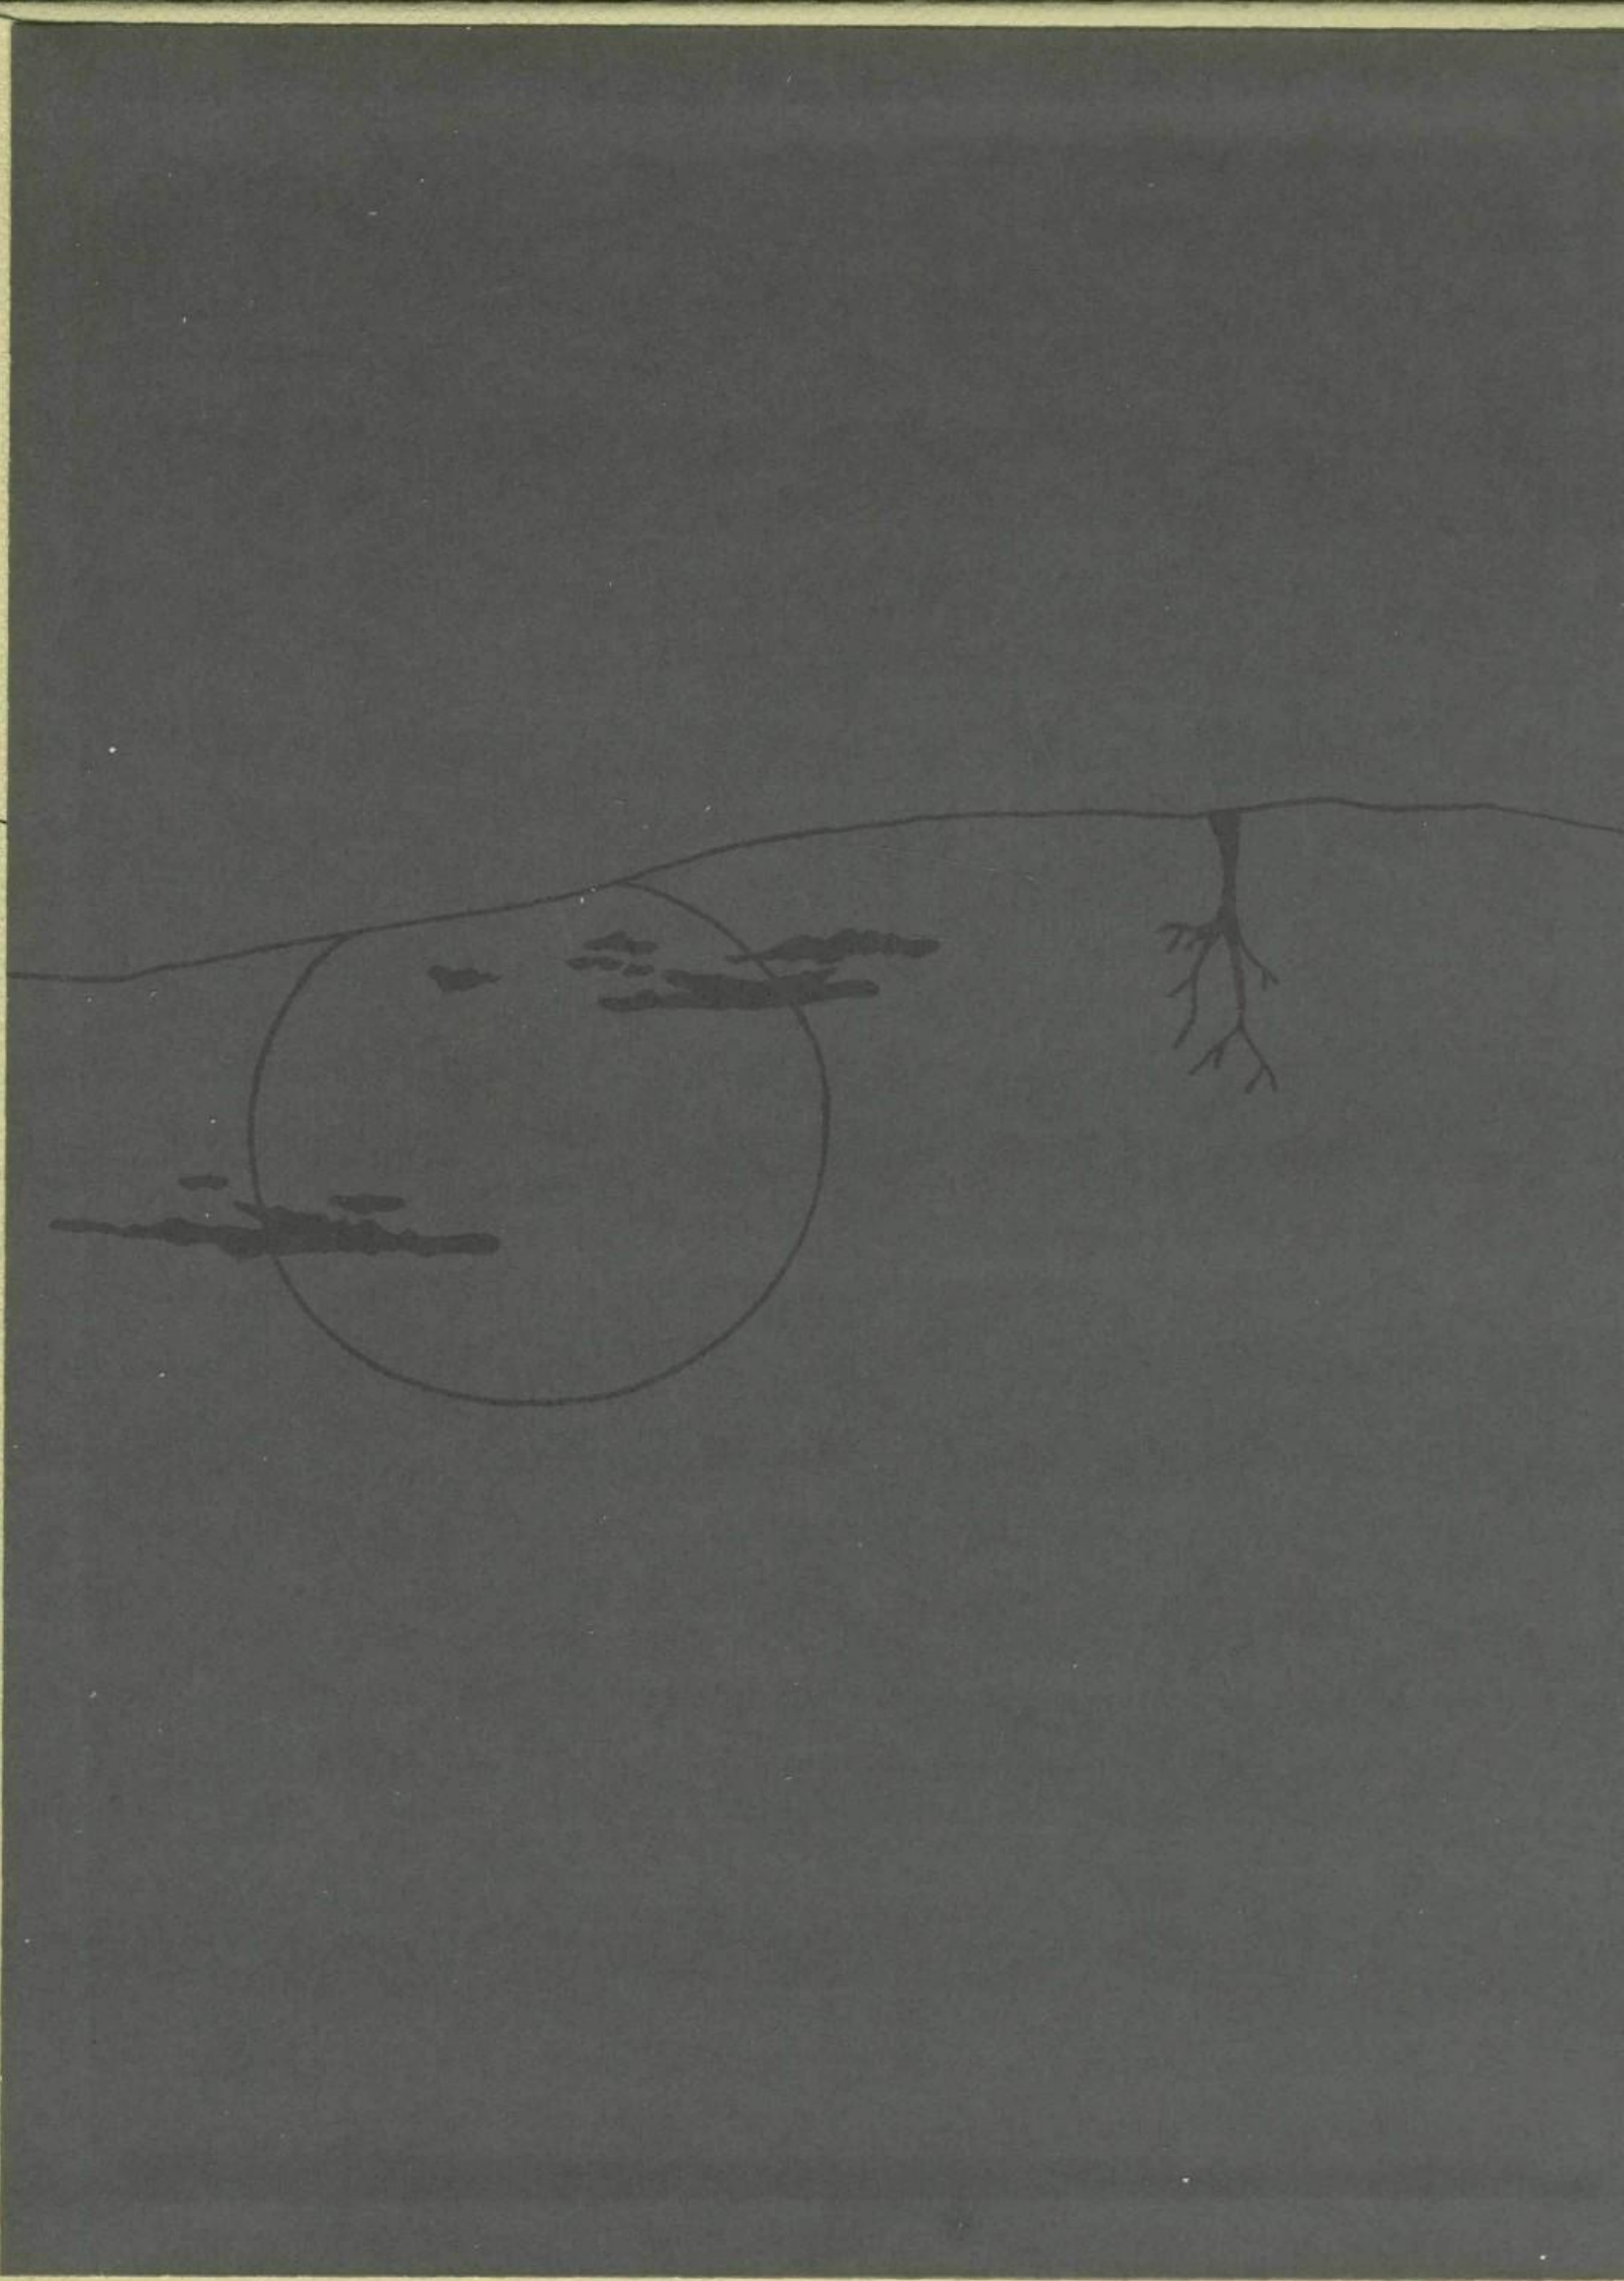
so we are colored like the sun,
warmed, reassured by its light
as we search for answers.

we attain our own place in the vast scheme of things UNDER THE SUN.


...under the sun
